NICE, France, Mar. 14.—
Definite indication that prison doors will swing open soon for Mrs. Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, former St. Louis beauty queen whose wealthy husband was slain in their fashionable villa here, was given International News Service today by Magistrate Vaehier, in charge of investigation into the domestic tragedy.

The magistrate, who will begin his questioning of the Philadelphia theatre magnate's young widow Wednesday, said after a perusal of police testimony:

Must Face Jury
"Regardless of developments,
which might be in her favor, Mrs.
Nixon-Nirdlinger must face a jury trial next August, as specified by law here in connection with a violent death."

"But very probably, she will be released on bail on soon as public opinion has quieted."

The police inquiry conducted into the slaying has been completed and a full report has been turned over to magistrate Vaehier.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger meanwhile is being held in jail informally under French law, a person cannot be released on bail of formally charged with murder.

Remains Unshaken
NICE, France, Mar. 14.—Alternatively calm and frantic as attorney and police questioned her repeatedly about the slaying of her husband in their villa here Wednesday night, Mrs. Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, former St. Louis beauty queen, remained unshaken in her story today that she fired to save her own life from his jealous fury.

Evidence has since been uncovered.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Indications are that the project of erecting a new postoffice in New Castle is to be speeded up by the government. Sites are already being asked, the fund is appropriated for the building and there is nothing to prevent actual work being started on the new building in the early summer, it would seem.

Double parkers are again becoming a traffic menace to auto drivers in the downtown section.

According to expert observers, the recent heavy snow was worth a great deal to farmers. The heavy snow melted gradually, and soaked into the ground, instead of melting rapidly and running off into the small streams and rivers.

The postmen have made their final delivery of mail on Saturday afternoon in New Castle, according to recent announcement by Postmaster Crawford. The local letter carriers and postal employees are already observing the 44 hour week, which means that they take Saturday afternoons off.

Daily Weather Report

U. S. Weather bureau statistics for the 24-hour period ending at nine o'clock this morning follow:

ENGINEERS BATTLE SLIDING MOUNTAIN

(International News Service)
CHAMBERY, France, Mar. 14.—
Army engineers pitted technical skill against a sliding mountain mass near here today to halt its juggen-aut downhill march over helpless communities and fertile fields of French Savoy.
The rolling mass of millions of cubic yards of earth, rock and snow already has swallowed four villages, scarcely its inhabitants in terror.
The large town of Granges now faces the approaching menace, with authorities evacuating the populace.
The engineers planned to halt the landslide by splitting its movement and diverting parts of it into a mountain torrent, which would carry it away. To accomplish this necessitates the destruction of several bridges.

Torrential rains caused the break-off from a nearby mountain. Starting a mud wall some 50 feet high straight down into the valley. For the first few hours the mass rolled down at a speed of 300 feet an hour.
Its thunderous progress warned villagers, who were ordered to flee.
Alpine guards and gendarmes supervised the evacuation of the several villages, the populace taking livestock and possessions with them.

Republicans-Democrats Construe Progressive Conference As Benefit

Both Republicans And Democrats Believe Progressives Aiding Them

Administration Leaders For-see Hoover Victory Result Of Conference

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—
The progressive drive to win popular support of their liberal legislative program today found both Republican and Democrat leaders, curiously enough, construing the progressive conference as abetting their respective chances for victory in the 1932 Presidential race.

Administration Republicans declared the progressive gathering had aided the re-election of President Hoover by removing the threat of a third party, such as might provoke another 1912 conflict and place a Democrat in the White House. They also argued the progressives had failed to raise an issue worthy of determining a Presidential campaign and that the 1932 race will be settled by economic conditions, over which the progressives have no control.

Democrats See Victory
The Democrats saw victory ahead as a result of the progressive campaign, because the liberal agenda was aimed entirely at criticism of the Hoover administration. They further saw the Democrats nominating a liberal candidate who could win progressive support at the polls and cut into the normal Republican ranks by capturing the Republican's
"left wing."

There was much difference of opinion among Republicans and Democrats as to the immediate results of the conference. Leaders on either side felt the progressives might win considerable support from the public on specific legislation, which has not and will not

Hunt Bodies Of Mother And Two Children In Sea

One Young Boy Swims Ashore
And Saves Self—Believe
Woman Despondent

(International News Service)
MATTAPoisett, Mass., Mar. 14.— State troopers today grappled in the sea for the bodies of Mrs. Adeline Allinson, wealthy society matron of Savilleville, R. I., and her two children, who were drowned here last night when the mother leaped with them from a wharf. A third child, a boy of 11, swam ashore.

Investigation was made to determine if the mother pushed the children into the sea and then leaped after them.
Wayne, the boy, told police his mother had brought him with Hope, 6, and Dwight, 3, to the ocean side to watch liners pass late yesterday.
He said while they were peering in the gloom, they were pushed off the wharf. The boy, who learned to swim last summer, said he managed to struggle to shore. He was discovered later shivering with fear and cold.

Mrs. Allinson was the wife of William Chester Allinson, owner of a beachery company at Savilleville.
He said his wife had been despondent but had never threatened to take her life.

Desmond Denies He Had Part In Store Robbery

Says He Never Saw Roux Store And Was Never In New Wilmington In Life

TELLS OF MOVEMENTS ON DATE OF ROBBERY

Claims He Was At Haymak-
er And Rodgers Homes
In Youngstown All
Evening

When the defense opened before Judge Chambers at court this morning in the trial of Samuel Raniolo, John Sankert and Francis Desmond for robbery of the J. B. Roux store in New Wilmington, it became evident that an attempt will be made to establish an alibi for the defendants.

Francis Desmond, the man whom
C. J. Klump, manager of the store testified had held him up at the point of a gun, went upon the witness stand and made a complete denial of all knowledge of the robbery.

Desmond Testifies Desmond claimed that he had never been in the Roux store, had never even been in New Wilmington, and had never seen Klump until he had met him in the police station at Youngstown.

Desmond testified that he had been employed in a mill at Youngstown, and that he had worked up until December 11th when he was temporarily thrown out of work. On December 13th, the date of the robbery, which occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock of that day, Desmond said he had been at the home of Mrs.
Margaret Haymaker in Youngstown.

He said that he had gone to the Haymaker home about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and he found that Mr. and Mrs. Haymaker and the children, were preparing to go to the home of William Rodgers, in Youngstown. He was told that there was to be a birthday party at the Rodgers home on December 14th, and that the Haymakers were going to take over a couple of chickens for the dinner.

Desmond said that he had helped
Mr. Haymaker catch and dress the chickens. He then had supper about 5 o'clock at the Haymaker home. After supper he went with the Haymaker family to the Rodgers home, taking the dressed chickens.

Woman Hunted In Girl Slave Mart

California Police Redouble Efforts To Find Olive Clark Day

GIRLS QUESTIONED REGARDING ORGIES

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Mar. 14.—
Conducting a secret and independent probe of the sensational Hollywood "girl bazaar" case, chief investigator Harry Baugh of San Diego today was searching for Olive Clark Day, former actress charged with operating the so-called girl mart.

Baugh said he wants to question
Miss Day on several new ramifications of the love bazaar which thus far has brought the arrest and re-signment of three wealthy businessmen including Alexander Pantages, millionaire theater magnate.

The former actress, who, with William H. Jobelmann, is charged with operating the love bazaar, vanished immediately after her release at a midnight bail bond conference.

Girls Make Statements
Baugh today was to take new statements from Lydia Nitto, otherwise known as Alice Blake, 16, and Helen Livingston, 17, whose testimony regarding a hotel party brought the arrest of Pantages, Jesse Shreve and John P. Mills.
Questioning of Camille Clark, 16 year old asserted girl bazaar victim, brought purported admissions that she had twice been taken to San Diego and betrayed at hotel orgies.
In payment she said she had received a cheap hat and coat.
According to the girl the agents who made the bargain for both parties were Miss Day and Jobelmann.
Jobelmann is still in the county jail, unable to raise bond.

ed to Western Pennsylvania streams by Secretary of War Hurley will be used in furthering the survey of the three streams in the Western Penn-

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Mar. 14.—
Upon pieces of a bloodstained newspaper police and criminologists today based new hope of identifying the slayer of 10-year-old Virginia Brooks, whose mangled and dismembered body was found bunched in a burly bag on Camp Kearney mesa last Tuesday.

Fingerprint experts today examined the paper's surface for possible tell-tale clues. Tests as to whether the stains were of human blood were to be made. The paper was found near where the body rested.

Possible Clue
Small pieces of another newspaper were found among the lead mold in the gunny sack which clothed the body. These likewise were considered as possible clues inasmuch as they were traced to special editions of a San Francisco newspaper which promoted the development of a nearby realty development.

Bundles of the papers left over from the development campaign are still sheltered in houses and offices throughout the tract.

From an analysis of the bits of paper, Walter Macy, fingerprint expert, said that the Brooks girl in all probability was killed within a few hundred yards of her home.

Greenwood, Delaware Has Damaging Fire

Small Village In Delaware Is Practically Wiped Out
By Blaze

(International News Service)
GREENWOOD, Del., Mar. 14.—
The business section of this little village of 1900 was practically wiped out by a disastrous blaze early today which caused damage estimated at $60,000.

Starting near the central part of the town the fire destroyed the ice cream plant of W. S. Cook, the store of Lewis Goresman, the store and home of George Hank, a garage and the dwelling of Mrs. Ella Webb.
Hampered by an insufficient supply of water the firemen pressed Pennsylvania railroad tank cars into service and hauled water from Harrington seven miles away. This finally enabled the fire fighters to bring the blaze under control and saved the entire town from destruction.

Florida Jewelry Store Robbery Is Loss Of $700,000

Bandits Kidnap Employee Of Store At Palm Beach And Secure Keys

LOOT MAY TOTAL CLOSE TO MILLION

(International News Service)
PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 14.—The quartet of bandits who boldly looted the Palm Beach branch of Charlton & Co., New York jewelry store, with loot estimated at $700,000 or more, were still at large today despite an extensive manhunt.

That the loot may total $1,000,000 was made known by G. A. Peacock, manager of the branch who announced that the jewelry was fully covered by insurance.

Robbers Bold
Detectives characterized the robbery as one of the boldest ever executed at the island resort here.

Three of the four gunmen kidnaped Otto Wegener, employee of the firm, threatening to kill him if he failed to obey their commands.

From Wegener they obtained the keys to the office and the combination to the safe, he told Sheriff R. C. Baker. Wegener said he was seized in front of his hotel at West Palm Beach and was driven in an automobile to an untenanted house and there threatened until he gave over the information.

Wegener was held captive all night with one of the gunmen standing guard with drawn pistol. He escaped and informed police of the robbery when the guard left him at dawn, he said.

Shop Well Looted
Wegener and Peacock hurried to the store and found that the shop had been looted of everything but the inexpensive assortments of jewelry. A careful selection of the stock had been made by the trio, Sheriff Baker said.

Investigation showed that the robbery had been executed after 7 a. m. when the night watchman went off duty and before Peacock and Wegener had reached the shop.

Lake Coal Starts Moving To Ports

Local Railroads Today Hauling Seasonal Freight Thru District

Forecasting a certain increase in railroad freight movements through the New Castle district, long trains of heavily-loaded coal cars bound for the various Lake Erie loading docks from the coal regions in the Pittsburgh district, passed over local lines today.

The Pennsylvania, the B. & O. and New York Central were hurrying their first shipments along today. The Pennsy and New York Central trains load and unload at Ashtabula, and the B. & O. has its dock at Fairport, O.

Reports received here today said that fishing boats at Ashtabula would venture forth Monday for the first time this season, indicating a sure sign that spring is not far off. This week saw the inauguration of railroad car ferry service from the Ashtabula port to Canada.

You're the JUDGE

The wealthy Mr. A. Splinter Ritch, the owner of the largest retail establishment in town, despite his great wealth, was heavily in debt. One day, therefore, he conferred by a deed, a large amount of real and personal property to Mr. B. Hoard Ketch, a lawyer friend of his, in trust to pay off Mr. Splinter Ritch's debts, in a manner Mr. Ritch had indicated. Mr. Ritch also gave Mr. Ketch power to collect, sell the property at public or private sale, and to do the usual duties of a trustee. The deed also provided that Ketch might retain 8 per cent commission.

Some days after the deed was executed, Mr. Splinter Ritch called Lawyer Ketch to him and they both agreed that if there were no litigation the commission was to be only 2 1/2 per cent to Mr. Ketch, and Mr. Ketch set to work. So assiduously did Mr. Ketch work that he had the estate almost closed when suddenly Mr. Ritch died. Two of his friends now became administrators of his affairs, and taking up the matter of Mr. Splinter Ritch's trust, retained 8 per cent as a commission, although admitting that there had been no litigation in connection with it.

This trick Mr. Ritch, and he filed suit to enforce the verbal agreement. In court the administrators argued that an agreement to change a written agreement must also be in writing.

JAIL DOORS YAWN FOR BEAUTY HELD IN FRENCH MURDER

ed in the Nixon-Nirdlinger villa on the fashionable promenade Des Anglaises tending to support her version of the slaying, but French authorities reached out to St. Louis and Philadelphia to get further information about the "Cinderella bride" of the theatre owner.

Held Informally
When all possible angles of the tragedy have been fully investigated, magistrate Vachier will decide whether to release the 1923 "Miss St. Louis" or whether charges shall be placed against her. She is being held informally.

Under French law, should manslaughter be charged and the man named for trial, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger would face the prospect of spending some six months in jail. A person accused of murder in France cannot be released on bail pending trial.

The young widow's strongest point of defense continued to be her claim that domestic affairs had reached the stage where her own life was jeopardized by her husband's constant jealousy. A fully loaded revolver owned by the dead man, and a drawing depicting him leveling a revolver at his wife were found in the villa by police. On the reverse side of the drawing was written:

"As you sow so shall you reap."

Maid Supports Woman
Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger's personal maid has supported her statements fully. Continued investigation by police has failed to uncover any reproachable incidents in her conduct. She will probably be taken before the magistrate for a final examination next week.

It was understood that relatives of the slain man will arrive here soon to take charge of the couple's two children, a boy of 3 and daughter two years old.

A species of the ice plant, which grows on the South African Steppe, has leaves closely pressed down to the earth, which resemble stones.

From This to Death, Despair

Could one foretell from this picture of perfect domestic felicity that a passion filled moment was to plunge this happy group into an abyss of death and despair? It is a photo of the Nixon-Nirdlinger family, of Phila., Pa., taken on an occasion when tragedy was far away. Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger is shown holding their youngest child the exemplification of happy motherhood. She is now held by the authorities at Nice, France, charged with the murder of her husband.

Dr. R. E. Hoffman Addresses Doctors Syling Addresses

Missionary Work In Persia From A Medical Viewpoint Is Discussed Friday

The auditorium of the First Presbyterian church was well filled Friday evening as Dr. Rolla E. Hoffman of Mesched, Persia, addressed the doctors, dentists, nurses and medical friends of these on the work being carried on in Persia.

Dr. Hoffman told of the problems that confront them and the difficulties they have to overcome and contend with in order to give the natives of Persia a fair chance for life.

He finds the greatest problems in is obstetrics, as there are no midwives of any ability to be present at such times and they get many patients into their hospitals that are victims of this ignorance.

The hospital at Mesched has a 50 bed capacity; there are three physicians and surgeons in charge; one American graduate nurse and two Armenian graduates form the efficient help and then a number of nurses in training, help to carry on.

The American doctors do not compete in any way with the native medicine men, but try to keep just a step ahead of them, in a Christian manner lead them to the higher methods of handling their cases. One great fault of the country they have to combat is that of not quarantining patients of such things as scarlet fever, whooping cough and other diseases, although a great stride forward has been taken in the subject of small pox through vaccination and they have subdued the spread of Asiatic cholera by having all persons who enter the country, detained five days at the border to examine them for any signs of the disease.

Dr. Hoffman brought out the great opportunity there is in Persia territory for workers in the medical profession, which can combine so splendidly with the spiritual work, which is being so efficiently done by those already in the field.

His address was of the utmost interest to the medical men who heard him, who compared the handicaps of Dr. Hoffman with the splendid conditions under which they work in our own community.

W. C. T. U. Holds Mid Year Institute
The mid-year institute of the W. C. T. U. was held on Friday in the Highland United Presbyterian church with Miss Margaret Walker, president of the Lawrence County unions in charge.

At the morning sessions the reports of the various heads of departments were heard and most gratifying was the work accomplished during the past year.

At noon a luncheon was held in the dining room of the church and at 1:30 the afternoon session was taken up with Miss Walker in the chair and Mrs. Margaret Speer Gibson leading the devotionals.

A march of the presidents of the 22 unions in the county featured the opening program and as each marched past the president's chair, a report of the new members secured during the past year was given. Attorney Robert McKinney White made the most enlightening address on "Know Your Courts," advising the women to thoroughly investigate the methods of functioning and the organizations which are organized for keeping the county in working order. His address was enthusiastically received.

Rev. Sam Matland, pastor of the Greenwood Methodist church addressed the women on the work being done in the prisons and jails of the country, and as a member of the reform board of the Ministerial Association, his story was one of experience, told in an informal manner, which was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Ensign V. Thomsen, of the Salvation Army spoke of the work being done by his organization all over the country in the prisons and jails and Ensign Thomsen is well qualified to speak of this work as he has had experiences in working in a spiritual way in the prisons of Massachusetts, West Virginia, Kentucky and Western Pennsylvania and his talk proved a great interest; telling of a phase of work of the Salvation Army that is not often heard of.

In closing the Institute Friday Miss Walker expressed her gratitude to the various union presidents and members for the hearty manner in which they had worked the past year.

No Material Effect
"The progressive conference will have no material effect on the destiny or policies of the Republican party," observed Senator McNary of Oregon, assistant Republican leader of the Senate, who frequently votes with the insurgents.

"I have no quarrel with them. They are bringing important issues before the people and that is a wholesome thing to do. They are airing their own views on these issues as they have a right, and I am glad if the people interest themselves in these issues and express their opinions."

"There can be no danger to the Republican party in their decision not to form a third party. I thought that was very sensible."

Senator Shortridge (R) of California, a conservative, said: "The progressive conference was highly successful in pointing out that a Republican President's legislative program is highly beneficial. This was accomplished because the criticism of the administration proved so intemperate and groundless it can only react to our benefit."

Free Air-Way Demonstration
Housewives of this city will be among the first in the country to receive demonstrations of a new type of electric cleaner being introduced by the local Air-Way branch.

This new electric cleaner differs from the ordinary vacuum cleaners in many respects. It was designed by Air-Way engineers to meet changed conditions in American home furnishings, new deep pile floor coverings, modern furniture and demands of public health authorities for greater sanitation. Ideas for the machine were obtained from prominent interior decorators, practical housewives, public health officials, technical institutions and bacteriologists.

The new Air-Way Sanitary System, as the cleaner is called, makes it possible to collect and dispose of household dirt without shaking out a vacuum cleaner bag or even removing a cloth bag from the machine. It eliminates one of the most disagreeable tasks in housework.

Among its features is a floor polisher and a moth treatment device. Call 5550.

UNRECOGNIZABLE

THE question of official recognition of the Russian government by Washington has been reopened by Secretary of State Stimson's announcement of a new study of the matter by the state department. He made it clear that the investigation is not inspired by a contemplated change of policy but will determine whether a change of policy is warranted.

From the hour of the revolution to the present the United States government has steadfastly refused to recognize the soviet government. Four presidents have preserved that policy inviolate.

Secretary of State Colby, of the Wilson cabinet, in 1920 established the policy because the "rulers of Russia do not rule by the will or the consent of any considerable proportion of the Russian people", because Russia had repudiated her war debts and because of the alleged presence of communist propaganda agents in the United States.

And then Secretary of State Hughes declared it would be a "mistaken policy to give encouragement to repudiation and confiscation".

President Coolidge restated the policy when he said: "I do not propose to barter away for the privilege of trade any of the cherished rights of humanity".

During the first two years of President Hoover's administration the government has not deviated from this fixed attitude, which would indicate that the proposed study is intended to vindicate that attitude.

MR. STONE IS FRANK

James C. Stone, the new chairman of the federal farm board, is a man of courage. He proved that in his first official statement after becoming chairman. It takes courage to tell the truth to people who do not want to know the truth, but that is just the sort of strength the farm board needs.

His predecessor, Alexander Legge, was a strong executive, but purposely or inadvertently he and his colleagues for more than a year left the public under the misapprehension that the board expected to recoup its heavy losses on the wheat market. It was not until Stone acceded to the chairmanship that the public was told that farm relief cannot be purchased at a low price.

Chairman Stone is more optimistic about the ultimate success of the farm relief plan. He foresees success and considers the cost of the program to the federal government exceedingly low considering the dividends it will play in improved national prosperity.

The board as now constituted contemplates no change of policy, and stresses, as former Chairman Legge did, the position that the board's speculations on the grain markets were to meet an emergency only and represent but a minor phase of the board's program.

It is well that the board has brought the country back to earth on this question, for everybody but the board has forgotten the primary purpose of the farm relief program, which is to organize the farmers for the purpose of abolishing disastrous surpluses and maintaining prices at a profitable but fair level.

POWER OF CUSTOM

After half a century of discouraging efforts to civilize the Sioux at a cost of millions, to say nothing of similar breast-soothing endeavors among the other tribes of savage redskins—at an outlay of more millions—the bureau of Indian affairs is still talking of developing the American Indian into a self-sustaining citizen.

It is a familiar phrase. Since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary it has been the custom of the bureau to announce hopefully at least once a year its determination to make the Indian a useful, economically independent citizen. It may or may not be significant that the announcement usually comes while the budget is in the making.

As for the taxpayers, who foot the bill, they long ago gave up hope of ever assimilating the native Americans of the plains. Many Indians have lost their racial characteristics and abandoned the customs of their people to become self-supporting, workaday civilians. Some have prospered and excelled among the palefaces. But the old generations will never learn to live in houses and work in offices or factories, not even in the fields, as their white brothers do. To try to teach them to live as the whites do is like trying to teach an immigrant grandmother the language of her adopted country.

There is nothing strange in the tenacity with which the Indians cling to the customs of their ancestors. Many white are no less custom-bound in mode or dress, manner of living and habits of thought and action. But this civilization, this thing called "modernity", gets them all after the first generation.

WAR VALUE OF THE "DIRIGIBLE"

"Unofficial" advice from the Canal Zone intimates that the dirigible Los Angeles, employed in the recent naval battle maneuvers in those waters, did not prove very useful for war purposes. The Los Angeles was used solely for scouting service, it appears. Dirigible advocates have contended that for this work the huge lighter-than-air craft are better than planes because of their greater stability and wider range of visibility. But it is declared that in the problem battle the huge bulk of the Los Angeles made her as easily visible to the enemy ships; that the planes sighted and reported the foe's approach before the dirigible did, and that an "enemy" destroyer even sighted the dirigible long before the dirigible crew noted the presence of the destroyer. Finally, it is asserted that the Los Angeles was theoretically "destroyed" by the foe before she had rendered any worthwhile service to the forces to which she was attached.

These criticisms, it is only fair to note, are attributed to naval line officers who already were doubtful of the dirigible's utility in naval warfare. They have all along contended that planes are much more useful for scouting service as well as for defensive and offensive combat work. The experiences of the problem battle have confirmed their previous convictions. But the dirigible advocates just as stoutly maintain that the Los Angeles proved its value for long-range scouting. Admitting her vulnerability to attack, they retort that the "dirigible of the future," now represented by the Akron, still under construction, will carry five airplanes inside her hull, to be used in repelling attack, and will be equipped with machine guns for the same purpose. Thus armed, they believe she will be able to defend herself and complete successfully all scouting tasks assigned to her.

The argument doubtless will continue to rage, in and outside of naval circles, until it is quieted by the test of actual warfare, or by continuance of the long series of dirigible disasters to the point where all hands concede their "inutility" for service involving hazards either of war or of abnormal weather.—The New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:04. Sun rises tomorrow 6:14.

A New York jeweler has just invented a non-transferable engagement ring. Young men will no longer be able to kill two girls with one stone.

Auto-Suggestion—When better motor cars are made, speed cops will overhaul them.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

The young suitor sought her father. "I want your daughter's hand in marriage, sir," he said. "I love her devotedly and I would suffer deeply, if I caused her a moment's sorrow."

"You're dead right, young man," answered the father. "You sure would suffer. I know that girl."

A little city girl was visiting her uncle, who is her neighbor. While showing his niece around the farm they came upon a hay fork. She wanted to know what it was. He told her, then she asked, "Uncle, do the cows eat hay with it?"

One way to become cheerful is to take a ride out into the country and look at the acres and acres of grass that you won't have to mow.

We read of a man who recently retired from service with the Western Electric company, who was on time for work 13,000 days in a row. He should have been kept on the payroll just as an example.

"Let's see your license," demanded the motorcycle cop.

"All right, officer. Here's the complete file—State tag, driver's, hunting, fishing, carrying weapons, dog, business and marriage. Take your choice."

"What was that vehicle with the shrill siren which passed the street car in the wrong side and dashed out the street at 60 miles an hour?"

"That was an ambulance."

"Is it hurrying to pick up the victims of an accident?"

"No, it had taken a sick man to a sanitarium and now it is returning to its place of business."

"Is there any reason for its mad dash through the traffic?"

"None in particular, except that the driver likes to show off."

Among the Illiterati—Egotism is a disease of the "Is".

Stage drivers in Yellowstone Park, reports a tourist, are asked many foolish questions. A woman tourist, deeply interested in the hot springs, inquired: "Driver, do these springs freeze over in winter?" "Yes madam was the response. "A lady was skating here last winter and broke thru and got her foot scalded."

Intangible Asset—

"The motor's cheap," a salesman said.

About economy he raved.

And here I stand with puzzled head.

Where is the money I have saved?

A negro launched a newspaper in Alabama. He had noticed how white editors had used the word "we" for "I" so he went them one better when he said: "We sho' feels grateful 'ol 'ol de good things dat's been said 'bout is in the paper."

SAVED—

He had risked his life to rescue the girl from a watery grave and, of course, her father was grateful.

"Young man," he said, "I can never thank you sufficiently for your heroic act. You incurred an awful risk in saving my only daughter."

"None whatever, sir," replied the amateur lifesaver, "I am already married."

Perhaps the Englishman's income is taxed more than ours, but his patience isn't taxed quite so much.

Mrs. Longshore, Kansas woman is learning to drive the family car. Watching her mother at the wheel little Josephine saw something lacking in the performance. "Mother," she advised, "you'll have to learn to spit out of the window as daddy does." Another Kansas youngster, riding with his father in a big car, passed a man with a horse and buggy. "Gee," he finally found words to say, "I bet that man is rich."

Poverty is no disgrace—but that's about all you can say for it. There are compensations for all things. For example, the fool and his money were lucky to have got together in the first place. The early bird gets his own breakfast. Another bit of good advice is to never start anything you can't stop.

The greatest sources of income in America are oil fields, mines, forest and tonsils.

THE ANGELIC HUSBAND

There are husbands who are pretty. There are husbands who are witty. There are husbands who in public are as smiling as the moon! There are husbands who are healthy. There are famous ones and wealthy. But the real angelic husband, well—he's never yet been born. Some for strength of love are noted. Who are really so devoted. That whenever their wives are absent they are lonesome and forlorn. And now and then you'll find one.

Who's a fairly good and kind one. Yet the real angelic husband—oh! he's never yet been born. So the woman who is mated to a man who may be rated as "pretty fair," should cherish him forever and a day.

For the real angelic creature, He has never been discovered, and he won't be, so they say.

Some people who have been doing a lot of shivering the last few days, will soon be down with the spring fever.

Near Niagara Falls, some tourists stopped and asked a farmer: "Could you tell us the best way to get into the falls?"

The old farmer replied, "I would not advise you to, Buddy."

There doesn't seem to be anything slow about Jack Dempsey's Pa. at the age of 73, took unto himself a bride just half his age. Maybe the old man thought Jack had been in the spotlight long enough.

YOU TELL 'EM—

Just tell 'em that

They gotta get out to save.

Many a man who is charged with wife desertion is merely a refugee.

A noted doctor states that cold sores are caused by an infection with a virus. Isn't that what love is?

She Was A Gold Digger—

There was a fellow named Bill Luzz, Who knew a maiden in Des Moines;

But he didn't know her long—because

One date with her took all his coin.

A fellow on the East Side reported that he had a tall other night which rendered him unconscious for eight hours. He explained that he fell asleep.

TIT FOR TAT—

There has been a shooting affray and Pat was a witness.

The judge, addressing Pat, said: "Did you see the gun go off?"

Pat—No, sir; but I heard it.

Judge—Then sit down, your evidence is not satisfactory.

Pat then put his hands up to his face and burst out laughing.

Judge—I shall have you now, Pat for contempt of court.

Pat—Did you see me laugh?

Judge—Then sit down, your evidence is not satisfactory.

The Hawk of Death
Heroes Rise From Chores
Driven Away by Little Fellows

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A hawk came over the hill, high overhead. On lazy wings he floated, on powerful wings he dived and swooped close to earth, his fierce eyes gleaming, alert for prey.

I looked up and saw him, savagely beautiful, and wondered idly what small, helpless, twittering thing would soon lie helpless in those cruel claws—what small thing whose daily business it is to chirp about a garden and hop from limb to limb and carry bits of hair and straw and make himself a nest in some green cover.

I need not have wondered. It was wasting my pity. The small things took care of themselves . . . and when next I looked I saw the Hawk of Death surrounded by a host of small flying things, who darted at him and pecked his wings and flew just out of range and fled away and came back and teased him more and more and made his life an increasing, torturing misery. . . . They had risen from the small gardens and their tiny nests and their quiet living to do battle with Destruction. Their small hearts were big enough, their courage was mighty enough, to do what needed to be done.

They drove that hawk away! Annoyed, bewildered, furious, he turned back and ran with the wind—and left his small specks of conquerors to whirl and dart in the blue heavens in what seemed to me far below to be a joyful dance of victory. . . . He came back, and they did it again. He returned a second time, and again they drove him off, and this time he was seen no more. . . . And the little birds came to earth, to go about their common daily business of living.

I've seen that same thing happen down here on earth. . . . Seen "commonplace" people, who have had no experience with the great emergencies, turn valiantly and send the fierce Hawk of Despair flying for his life. I've seen them rise above their little chores, their humble ways, and do what needed to be done—and win a battle with all the odds against them—and then come home again as if nothing at all had happened.

I've seen the little, unconsidered habits of a lifetime become mighty weapons against the arrogant Hawk of Destruction, and I have never ceased to marvel at the boldness of the humble, the endurance of the little, the magnificent courage of those who do not know they are brave.

LET YOUR SON CHOOSE HIS WORK

You parents with sons in college are you trying to persuade them to prepare themselves for a line of endeavor in which they are not interested?

You probably want them to enter professions when they desire something else.

If you have to crowd a boy into any profession before he has made it clean to himself that he wants it, you are liable to ruin his happiness in his life-work.

You don't want your boy to be mediocre in his trade or business calling.

But you don't want him to feel "called" in any certain direction.

It is better to be a leader in lesser things than to be a failure in the higher profession.

No doubt you have felt chagrined by the work that your son has expressed a desire to pursue.

But let the boy have a chance and perhaps he will see for himself that he is fitted for something better.

Education and contact with leaders in his college are features of college life that are invaluable to the growing and absorbing mind.

Italy And France Give Hope To World Of Better Feeling

Agreement Between Two Nations Believed By Americans To Give Support To Naval Agreement Made At London Between America, Britain And Japan

Great importance is attached by the United States to the agreement between Italy and France, by which naval limitation will be assured in harmony with the conclusions of the London disarmament conference of the United States. Great Britain and Japan. It is believed to point the way to future advances toward peace with a prospect of increased prosperity for the world.

"The people of the United States have much reason to rejoice," according to the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, which points out that "neither our own government nor that of Ramsay MacDonald could look with anything but distaste upon a French and Italian naval rivalry. The 'escalator clause' of the London treaty concludes that paper, 'would have compelled Great Britain to increase her fleet at a time when the taxation situation was decidedly acute. We would have had to build considerably more than a billion dollars worth of ships if Henderson and Gibson had not taken steps to prevent a potential building race between France and Italy. The peaceful and amicable settlement will not hurt the feelings of the American and British taxpayers. They will be inclined to cheer the envoys whose tact and diplomacy have triumphed."

"No loyal citizen," thinks the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, "would have his country go on unprepared. He is ready to support all needed expenditures to keep both army and navy properly equipped. But he represents a condition that forces his country to engage in competition with others, a competition which carried to its logical conclusion, may spell bankruptcy. The London treaty, with the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Japan in accord, should materially check this senseless race and waste."

"This matter is one of vital concern," says the LEXINGTON LEADER, "not merely as a means of saving enormous sums of money which would be sunk in fresh armaments as time passed but as a means of paving the way toward further agreements. Observing that the London government already had given notice of its intention to 'invoke the escape clause' of the three power treaty in order to expand its naval defense if the programs of its neighbors compelled that added protection," the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE declares that "the danger was so obvious that not even the 'statesmen could ignore it' and that 'it appears they found a way to avert it—a treaty formula acceptable to all concerned—with surprising and encouraging ease.'"

The way is cleared for racking the problem of general disarmament," avers the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, while the HAMILTON EVENING JOURNAL sees the possibility of agreements on all these means by which wars are fought" and the ALBANY EVENING NEWS feels that this step is likely to remove the strain that existed between Great Britain and France and it is indicative that Mussolini, who he speaks defiantly on occasions, is speaking only to impress his own people."

"The leaving of naval accord 'is working,' proclaims the PASADENA STAR-EVENING, with the further comment as to the effect of the accord: "Bind together in a clear-cut compact for naval limitation the five great naval powers—the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy—and no concern need be felt about any naval problem which the rest of the world might create. These five powers have the bulk of naval tonnage of the world. They constitute the overwhelming naval power of the world. Those who criticized and scoffed at the London naval conference are beginning to revise their opinions—and for good reason. The agreements there reached are influencing the

No Rate Complaints Made From County To House Probers

(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Mar. 14.—In the compilation of earnings, shown for 52 electric light companies in the state of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Power company, furnishing New Castle and Lawrence county, was shown to be among those making a return somewhat near what the Public Service Commission believes to be a fair rate of return upon prudent investment.

The rate established by the Public Service Commission is seven per cent. This is considered to be what the company should be allowed to earn. The Pennsylvania Power company shows a return of 8.68 per cent for the year 1929, upon the face of the figures furnished the commission.

Many Are High. Many of the companies throughout the state made several times the seven per cent set as a fair return. The Abington Electric company showed a return of 28.5 per cent, the Barnesboro-Spangier Electric company 25.77 per cent, the Cresson Electric company 31 per cent, the Keystone Public Service company 19.21 per cent, the Bedford Electric company 21.6 per cent and so it went. One of the low return companies listed was the Harmony Electric company, which showed but 4.76 per cent profit.

The figures for the Pennsylvania Power company show a total fixed capital of $7,960,724.84. The reserve for renewals and replacements is shown at $19,755.79. The depreciated book value of the company is shown at $7,940,969.05. The operating income is shown at $761,317.76 and from this is deducted $72,900 paid for lease rentals, leaving a net operating income of $688,417.76, or an over all return of 8.68 per cent.

No complaints against rates of service were received from any borough or township in Lawrence county. In the matter of water rates paid in various cities of the state, New Castle seems to be down in the list.

Water Rates. Many cities and boroughs presenting complaints to the house committee upon investigation, rates of $35 per water plug were quoted and in addition a mileage charge of $450 per mile for the cost of pipe which had been installed. Mayor Joseph Heinemann of Butler charged that his city was paying $12,000 for fire protection, or 50 per cent more than New Castle for about half as many plugs as New Castle has.

The city of New Castle pays an average of about $9000 per year for approximately 450 plugs which brings the average per plug to about $20 or slightly more. A comparison of the rates to domestic consumers in New Castle as against other cities shows the others to be high, according to the testimony given by witnesses. Many of them operate on a flat rate, which brings the cost of an average house to about $35 per year. In New Castle average cost to domestic consumers is $12.19 per year.

World's Deadliest Poison Made Known

Transvaal Bulb Gives Off Deadly Poison—One Drop Could Kill 10,000

(International News Service) CAPETOWN, SOUTH AFRICA, Mar. 14.—The world's deadliest known poison, so potent that a single drop is sufficient to kill 10,000 adults and a whiff will prove fatal, has been discovered in a transvaal bulb. It was revealed today by the Bureau of government organs.

Because of its exceptionally fatal powers, the government decided to keep manufacture of the poison a secret. The scientific name of the bulb of deadliest qualities is "Adenia."

The bulb poison was discovered by Dr. Green of the Dersteport laboratory. It is the only known poison that does not leave a trace on the victim's body.

Government officials remained non-committal on the marketing plans for the poison, merely pointing out that it could easily be turned into a terrific menace if accessible to many.

What is this thing called BEAUTY?

"... like a garden is the beauty of woman. Tended it sings with glory... Neglected, weeds creep in... one grieves... that lovely eyes should be marred by lines, a charming mouth by a double chin or a "scraggly" throat beneath.

"Your face is more nearly you than anything else in your whole personality.

"You may not have been born with beauty, but the woman does not live who cannot be made pleasant to look upon.

"And your intelligence is reflected by the condition of the face... "Everything should be done to enhance the face."

These lectures are given each third Sunday morning in the month and among pupils, teachers and officers. Mr. Bob Mackie has just equipped the Guild Room with dark green shades which will make it possible to darken it more effectively.

Rev. Margaret Joshua Will Begin Revival

The Sunday morning service at Croton Avenue Methodist Episcopal church will be one of particular interest in that it begins a series of evangelistic meetings, with Rev. Margaret Joshua as the speaker. Sunday evening her subject will be "If Christ Should Come to New Castle" and great possibilities are offered in this subject and it is anticipated the auditorium of the church will be filled for the first of the sermons as well as on each evening, when services will begin at 7:30.

Student Issue Is Published Friday

St. Patrick issue of "The Ben Franklin" student newspaper published and printed at the Benjamin Franklin junior high school was received by the student body Friday.

This week's issue is an especially attractive one and contains news of interest to the pupils.

WEEKLY

LETTER

The Castleton,
Monday, Mar. 16, 1931.
12:15 to 1:30 P. M.

Fellow Rotarian:

We will have another of those interesting classification talks by a member who has never been heard before on any subject, Ray Marthaler will tell us about "Oil and Gasoline."

Ray can handle this inflammable subject in a style that would give credit to a public utility manager and we look for a good attendance. Herman Hess attended Ben Gram's Rotary Club. Our club had a joint meeting with Miami Rotary with Al Thayer, Fred Rentz and Jim Blackwood representing us. Prexy Wallace attended Wilmington Rotary.

Rotarian: Step on or step off. A Rotary Club is not a hammock for lounging. It is a revolving platform on which you must step on or off.—Fred D. Van Amburgh.

Wife: Henry, do you realize that you have forgotten this is my birthday?

Husband: Yes, dearie. I did forget, and it's quite natural that I should. There really isn't anything about you to remind me that you are a day older than you were a year ago.—The Humorist.

'Sending' Children To Church

You cannot send your children to church. In the long run it is not the word of command but the power of example that counts. "Follow" is a more potent word than "Go." It is a pretty sight to see little children starting off alone for Sunday school, but when the child's little list is clasping his father's finger, the minister knows that the churchward journey has far more significance for the future.

You may tell your child of the supreme importance of religion, of the mighty contributions of the church to civilization through the centuries, and of his personal responsibility to that church and its leader; but when he stands on the threshold of manhood and begins to think for himself, his thoughts will examine your church habits and, for some reason, he will forget all that you have said unless your life has spoken the same message.

The church is a mighty force for good in the life of a youth, but when preaching has to fight the faithlessness of father it generally loses out. "And Ahad walked in the way of his father and in the way of his mother" (1 Kings, 22:52). Most young people do. What path do you blaze for your boy on a Sunday morning?

Dr. S. O. Pruitt Leaves City After Examining Employees

Medical Secretary Of State
Tuberculosis Society Examines 302 Pottery Employees

"The large number" of deaths from tuberculosis among high school and college students, persons just entering employment and those in early married life emphasizes the need for Spring early diagnosis campaign of 1931," said Dr. S. O. Pruitt, medical secretary of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society today. Dr. Pruitt has been spending the past two weeks in New Castle examining the employees of the Shenango Pottery and doing other work with the local society.

In discussing the 1931 campaign Dr. Pruitt states that were 126 deaths from tuberculosis of persons between the ages of 10 to 15 years, 441 deaths of persons 15 to 19 years of age and 785 deaths of persons between 20 and 25. Out of a total of 6317 deaths from tuberculosis in Pennsylvania during that year, 7,732 deaths or 60 percent, were of persons between the ages of 15 and 45 years.

"It is appropriate, therefore," concluded the tuberculosis specialist, "that our national tuberculosis association has chosen as its slogan for 1931 the words 'Tuberculosis the foe of youth' and, with its affiliated societies, is concentrating its efforts upon young people in high school, in college and in industry." Alfred P. Gibbs Closes Services

African Evangelist Has Held
Two Week's Successful
Services In Baptist Church

The parable of the Good Shepherd was graphically presented by Evangelist Alfred P. Gibbs last night before a large audience in the First Baptist church. The message was illustrated by exquisitely colored lantern slides, and closed with an impassioned appeal to the unsaved to accept the Lord Jesus Christ, the Good Shepherd, who gave His life for the sheep. Following the message with the lights still off, D. S. Williams sang "The Ninety and Nine" in a very impressive manner. Prayer was offered by Pastor Hiram Van Cleave of the North Liberty Presbyterian church. The chorus choir contributed a beautiful anthem. Another musical feature was a duet by Mrs. Harry C. Cook and Charles Fombelle.

The special evangelistic services will close on Sunday. Mr. Gibbs will give an object talk to the intermediate department of the Sunday school. At the morning church service he will speak on the subject "Compassed," and in the evening his final message will be on the great theme, "Redeemed."

Public Relations Dinner On Friday

Business And Professional Women Will Have Big Banquet At Y. W. Monday Evening

Miss Emily Rice, chairman of the Public Relations committee, has just about completed plans for the annual Public Relations dinner to be given by the Business and Professional Women's club of this city Monday evening.

The banquet will take place in the Green Room of the Y. W. C. A. Some of the most prominent people of New Castle have been invited as special guests of the occasion and Miss Rice has arranged a splendid program for after dinner.

Members of the committee assisting Miss Rice are Misses Katherine Hite, Betty Beeler, Betty Biles, Ethel Pitzer and Helen White.

This banquet will undoubtedly take its place among the most important events ever sponsored by this worthy women's club, and a large crowd is expected to attend.

This will be a fitting climax to the National Business Women's Week, observed by the local club and B. P. W. clubs throughout the United States. Each club is ending the week with a Public Relations banquet.

The committee in charge of National Business Women's Week in New Castle includes Mrs. Clara Balch, Mrs. J. M. Butler, Miss Roseena McGurk and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Are You Guiding
Your Child to Happiness!

YOUR child could suffer no handicap half so sad or so unfortunate in its consequences as the lack of religious upbringing. The child is spiritually nurtured upon the bosom of the church. It is the Great Truths, learned during the formative period, that will sustain your child throughout his life. Therefore is the example you set by regular attendance at church of immeasurable importance. Come to church Sunday.

Lack Of Certain Food Substances Will Cause Disease—Dr. Clendening

Condition Of Prisoners In Java Camp Due To Diet Of Cooked, Polished Rice, Causing Beri-Beri

LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The recent death of Professor Eijkman brought to mind the anniversary of the discovery of vitamins. For Professor Eijkman was the first man to produce a disease in animals due entirely to withholding a certain substance in the food.

This was in 1896. The disease was beri-beri. Dr. Eijkman had been sent out to Java as a physician employed by the Dutch government. The young doctor observed the pitiful condition of the prisoners in the prison camp, from paralysis and drooping of the legs. He wondered what the cause could be. And then one day he saw some fowls in the yard of the hospital to which he was attached. They were paralyzed just as the poor convicts he had been studying.

He made inquiries. He found the fowls were fed cooked rice from the hospital kitchen. It was the same kind of rice the convicts ate. Dr. Eijkman found that it was polished rice, or in other words, rice from which the shell had been milled. So he gave healthy fowls polished rice until they became almost paralyzed, and then cured them by adding rice shavings to the polished rice.

When he ordered the convict's diet changed from polished to unpolished rice, the disease beri-beri disappeared from Dutch prison camps. No wonder he was given the Nobel prize.

Now Dr. Mellanby comes with another kind of nervous disease caused by some dietary error. It is not exactly like beri-beri because it consists of degeneration of the spinal cord, while beri-beri was a neuritis—and inflammation of the peripheral nerves.

These degenerative patches in the cord are due to a diet consisting of absence of fat-soluble vitamins and the presence of wheat germ apparently infected with the disease.

got. A peculiar feature of the work is that the ergotized wheat alone will cause degeneration, but not if the fat-soluble vitamin is added to the diet. The vitamin is probably vitamin A, for butter, cabbage and egg yolk are the substances which prevent the cord degeneration. The interesting thing from a practical point of view is the possibility of the spinal degeneration of pernicious anemia being caused in this way. We know that pernicious anemia is a food deficiency disease and there also occurs cord degeneration in its course. It is true, also that liver extract does not have much effect on these cord changes. But liver extract is a water-soluble substance, and the vitamin which prevented the cord degeneration in Mellanby's experiments was fat-soluble. It is possible that we have another food deficiency factor in pernicious anemia responsible for the nervous changes and that it can be administered as easily as liver extract, to prevent the nervous changes of that disease.

Bo Broadway

Central Press.

NEW YORK, Mar. 14.—Broadway has dispatched scouts to Scotland to pursue inquiries concerning a drink said to be popular in the Land of Oats.

The supreme merit of this libation resides in the fact that after an overdose the previous night, by merely taking a glass of water the drinker may revive all sense of intoxication.

TUSH: TUSH!
Tammany Town has at least become Whanielized.

Nowadays a gardenia, often as not adorned the busy executive's lapel and from one of the Big Bud and Bloom Boys on the Avenue de la Quince we learn that certain species of small orchids in pale green and beige shades are worn by "men of taste."

So constant are the lads in their choice and habit of wearing a bud to business, that the proprietor of a Park Avenue Buttery, Bazaar has instituted a daily early-morning delivery of single flowers to business men's offices.

Things have become so serious that the professional humorist is being forced to the expedient of kidding the scientist—for want of better material.

The latest dastardly blow at the funny man's livelihood is the equipping of all newly built railroad car windows with handles, similar to those on automobiles.

That, of course, marks the end of the scorchingly funny wheeze about the lad trying to open a car window for a pretty dame, and bursting a blood vessel.

Quality And Not Quantity Present Slogan U. S. Army

More Than Fifty Per Cent Of Applicants For Enlistment Are Rejected

Enlistment in the United States Army, according to the announcement made public today through Sergeant J. W. Thompson, officer in charge of the recruiting station, 303 St. Cloud Building, is based on the qualifications of the applicant. There is a mistaken impression on the part of the public in regard to the matter.

The following extract from Recruiting News of March 1, 1937, follows:
Figures made public recently by the Adjutant General of the Army show that for the quarter ending December 31, 1936, 534 or 7.29 per cent of the applicants for enlistment during that period were rejected by the recruiting service on account of the failure to pass the prescribed intelligence tests given to all applicants for original enlistments.

A total of 7,368 men applied for original enlistment. Of this number only 2,824 were enlisted, there being 4,007 rejected for other reasons. In addition to the 534 who were rejected because they failed to meet the mental standards now required by the army.

The fact that more than fifty per cent of the men applying for original enlistment were rejected does not mean, according to one recruiting officer, that men of a lower type than usual are seeking service with the colors, but merely that the war department, as a part of its "Quality not Quantity" policy, has raised the standards for applicants mentally, morally and physically, and that only young men of the very highest type can meet these standards.

Reno To Perform Mental Gymnastics

To demonstrate his masterful ability as a memory expert and the ease with which he can perform super-mysterious tricks, Lionel C. Reno, Shenango township mental marvel, will appear Thursday, March 18, in an evening program at the Hill school No. 2, Morris Stop.

The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Shenango Township Parent-Teacher association.

OH, IMPARTIAL JUDGE!
Once upon a time I used to take a half-Nelson on the old fountain pen and scrawl my John Hancock in the nonchalant and carefree manner for which I am famous both here and abroad.

Then, a couple of occasions arose when I bitterly regretted not having donned my glasses, placed my feet on the desk and carefully scanned section 9 of paragraph 18, before signing.

The only time I ever won a dispute over something I'd signed was the time I soaked my landlord on the jaw.

The Magistrate said I had no right to do such a thing. I disagreed with him.

"If you'll read that lease," I told him, "you'll find everything written down there that I can't do. But it doesn't say that I can't sock the landlord."

The Magistrate read the lease carefully, then laughed a merry rippling laugh and discharged me.

Of course, the fact that I patronized the same bootlegger as Hizzoner, and that the bootlegger happened to be his brother, had nothing whatever to do with the case.

I, myself, don't drink. I never touch the Cursed Stuff. But.....

One of the characteristics of this age is to hear the needs of the child sounded from every public platform. From the smallest country school house on to legislative halls, and voiced before every select group from the smallest parlor club to the White House. Never before has there been such a general turning of the thought stream of a nation toward the smallest form of humanity.

That doesn't mean that we understand the child of today better than we comprehend his needs whereas we failed to see needs before. It doesn't mean that we have found the perfect method to train a child in the way he should go.

It only means the thoughts of a nation from the humblest laborer to the president of the United States have been turned into that channel. It means that every ear that is listening in, notes the emphasis that is placed on the need to understand the child and his possibilities. It simply means that we are in the travail of giving birth to a new conception of building children into useful and capable men and women and suffering the pangs of forming a system that begins with life in the cradle and recognizes the importance of perfecting each day's task in the constructive process.

The bringing of such a new system into the thought and life of a nation is not an easy task... the throes that prove annoying and irritating are the suggested methods hundreds of them, that confuse and the methods already adapted to new schemes that prove to be visionary, inadequate and disappointing.

Among the potent factors that have helped to focus the thought of the nation upon the child and his needs are the hundreds of women's organizations throughout the land that have been instrumental in re-shaping the mother's anxious thought for the child into a nation's concern for its children.

None are more interested in this movement in the interest of childhood than the General Federation of Women's clubs and because this great body of federated women feels that the home must hold to its influence in promoting any system that has to do with the molding of life it maintains its department of the home. This department deals efficiently with all phases of home life, giving information and inspiration to home makers. It urges each club to make a systematic and practical study of the problems concerning the child and gives practical and scientific aid in such study.

Just beginning to think, as we are in terms of practical relations of the nation to the child means that much floundering has been and will be done before we will be able to grasp the right thought. Herein lies a great danger. The danger that the training of the child and the directing of the child in its hours of work and play will be taken entirely from the hands of the parents and become a mechanized affair. No greater danger could come to the child and to the nation than this. No one lays the nation open to this danger more truly than the lazy or indifferent parent who would be glad to farm out the care of their child.

It is the work of this home department of the federation to arouse all mothers to their responsibility as to being molders of life and to make all club women alert to the need of wise, constructive thinking in order to grasp wisely and surely this opportunity that is being presented today to childhood for adequate protective laws, for constructive education, for development of the greatest possibilities that are latent in the child.

"Me at 8 o'clock," the girl replied.

Claims Explosion Followed Striking Of Match In House

Frank Port Denies That He Intentionally Set Fire To Merriman House

Going upon the witness stand before Judge Hildebrand at court Friday afternoon, Frank Port, accused of arson in connection with the burning of the Roda Merriman house on the Ellwood road, denied that he had intentionally set fire to the house. He claimed that when he struck a match an explosion followed, and the house was soon in flames.

Upon cross examination by Assistant District Attorney Harry Frank he admitted that he had held a second mortgage on the property. The amount of this was $1100, a small part of which had been paid. Mr. Frank read some of his statements to the district attorney which was reduced to writing but the defendant could not remember his answers. In this set of questions and answers, Port is said to have admitted being at the house on the night of February 11th, that he had admitted striking a match, and that immediately after there was a loud explosion, followed by a fire.

On his examination in chief, Port denied having set the house on fire and denied all knowledge of how it had become ablaze. He mentioned a man named Roscoe, who has been a customer in his (Port's) store for some time, and seemed to infer that Roscoe might know something about the blaze. The man has not been seen since the fire, according to Port.

This morning Samuel Gongaware, a plumber of Ellwood City was called to testify relative to sewer gas on the theory that sewer gas had leaked into the house from a septic tank, and that it had ignited when Port struck a match. Mr. Gongaware told about the traps connected with septic tanks and sinks, saying that if for any reason the traps did not contain water, sewer gas was likely to leak into a house. He did not know anything about the septic tank connected with the Merriman house, but was giving general principals of operation. He claimed that sewer gas is more inflammable than natural gas, and that a fire might follow an explosion.

Mrs. Frank Port, wife of the defendant, testified that when he had returned home she noticed that his hair was singed. On the night of the fire Mrs. Port said that she and a Mrs. Emma Albina had been visiting a neighbor and returned home around 11:30 o'clock. The case is still on trial.

Police Investigate Holdup Attempts

Holdup Man Secured Nothing Of Value As Far As Police Can Determine

Two holdup attempts, one on Long avenue and the other on Pennsylvania avenue, late last night, were investigated by the police, but the perpetrator was not located.

The first known attempt was that investigated following a call to Long avenue and Hamilton street about 11 o'clock. Lieutenant Hillers and Officers Thomas and Moore answered the call and found that two men, Alex Kulick of 1814 Moravia street, and George Almok, 513 Waldo street, had been walking on Long avenue, near Hamilton street, when a man stepped out, hitting Kulick in the eye and knocking him down. The other man yelled and the hold-up man ran away without getting anything.

While making this investigation, the officers found that about 15 minutes previous to this holdup, a man had pulled a gun on two young men, one of whom was named Hiler and resides on Pennsylvania avenue. As far as could be determined nothing of value was secured.

The holdup man was described as being white, six feet tall, slender build and about 23 to 25 years of age. He had on a dark suit, dark tweed overcoat and light soft hat and presented a well dressed appearance.

OUR OWN VAUDEVILLE
Sleuth—I'm looking for a fellow with plain eye-glasses.
Citizen—That's silly; you could probably find him quicker with a telescope.

Philosophy is the comforting conviction that men will still be saying a thousand years from now, that civilization can't survive another war like the one just ended.

Military authorities say civilian flyers would be much help in case of war, but they seemed to do rather well in the last one.

along. When the chickens were presented Mrs. Rodgers said she was afraid the chickens, which she had evidently been expecting, were not going to arrive and she had purchased a rooster.

Desmond said that he had remained with the Haymakers at the Rodgers home continuously until 10 o'clock. He said that the reason he had gone back to the Haymaker home was because he wished to hear Gene and Glenn put on their drive for Red Cross funds. Desmond explained that he is an ex-service man and was greatly interested in the Red Cross drive.

Listen To Radio
A large amount of money was to be raised that night and Desmond said that he and some of the other members of the family had remained up all night listening to the progress of the drive. At about 6 o'clock on the morning of the 14th he had gone to bed at the Haymaker home, remaining in bed until shortly after 10 o'clock when he went home.

Desmond fixed the date December 13th when he was at the Haymaker home, by the date when he had quit work on the 11th and by the fact that the Rodgers birthday party for which he had helped to prepare the chickens, was on the 14th.

He denied all connection with the robbery, maintaining that he had never seen Klump until after he was arrested. He also denied being acquainted with Sankert, claiming that he had seen Sankert for the first time in the Lawrence county jail.

Mrs. Marga et Haymaker corroborated Desmond as to his whereabouts on the evening of December 13th. She said that Desmond had come to her home about 3 p. m. on the 13th. She was sure of the time because she had looked up at the clock as he entered and had remarked that it was nearly time to get supper. She fixed the date by the date of the Rodgers birthday party, which was to be on the 14th.

She said that Desmond had helped her husband catch and dress two chickens. They had supper about 5 o'clock, after which she and her husband, her two children, Ann, and Woodrow Leech, by a former marriage, and Desmond, all went over to the Rodgers home in an automobile. She claimed that Desmond was with them continually until they went back home, and that he was at their house all night listening to the Red Cross drive over the radio. She said that Desmond did not have a radio, and that as he wanted to hear the Red Cross drive, she had invited him to return with them from the Rodgers home. It was between 5 and 6 o'clock, she said when they arrived at the Rodgers home. She had never heard Desmond mention knowing any of the others concerned in the robbery. She had not heard of Desmond's arrest until about a week after he had been committed to jail.

Other members of the Haymaker family corroborated Mrs. Haymaker as to Desmond's being with them on the evening of December 13th. The case is still on trial.

Friday Afternoon
Nine witnesses for the commonwealth yesterday afternoon ended testimony in Judge James A. Chambers' court during the trial of three youths charged with the hold-up of the J. B. Roux feed and coal store in New Wilmington on last December 13.

C. J. Klump, partner of the Roux business place, first witness, produced by District Attorney John S. Powers, completed his testimony in the afternoon session, telling how the three defendants on trial, Francis Desmond, John Sankert and Samuel Raniolo, all of Youngstown, and each under 25 years old, victimized his son and an Amish farmer, Amos Byler, and himself when the trio staged the hold-up in New Wilmington.

Thomas Bowser, Youngstown city detective, one of the chief witnesses produced by District Attorney Powers on Friday, testified that Youngstown police charge Raniolo with the hold-up and robbery of the Ohio Dried Fruit Company of Youngstown on the day before last Christmas.

At the morning session Klump told the complete story of the hold-up, preceded by the district attorney, who outlined the robbery to the jury in opening the case.

Court Crowded
Judge Chambers' court was crowded in the afternoon as each of the witnesses for the prosecution came to the witness stand to be questioned by opposing counsel. Amos Byler, the second witness for the state, followed Klump in a similar story of the hold-up, telling how the three had tied him and the two Klumps in the Roux feed room after rifling the cash register of about $200.

Byler declared that Sankert and Raniolo both wore masks, while Desmond, who appeared the gentleman of the hold-up trio, was unmasked.

John Harry Klump, son of the store partner, was the third witness. He told how Raniolo, after taking all the available money from the store, had taken the $22 which his father had paid him that afternoon. The son's story was also a review of the hold-up.

After a brief recess B. C. Bilger of Pulaski store clerk during the night of December 13, testified he had noticed a speeding car pass his store between 5:30 p. m. and six p. m. The robbery of the Roux store is declared by Klump to have occurred at about 5:45 p. m.

Charles Doyle of New Bedford, Pa., testified that he saw a wrecked car past the state line on the Ohio side on the night of the hold-up. Doyle fixed the time at about 6:30 p. m. The machine was a Lincoln sedan, and Doyle declared that while passing by in his own car he noticed two short men walking away from the wreck.

Car Wrecked
Robert McClanahan, deputy constable of Pulaski township, testified he investigated the wreck and notified the Mahoning county authorities at Youngstown on the following afternoon.

The deputy constable identified Raniolo as the man who arrived the next day while a wrecking crew from Youngstown was removing the machine and announced that he was the owner of the car. McClanahan said Raniolo appeared at the wreck in a motor truck.

Louis A. Gipp, Youngstown detective, assigned to the stolen automobile department, testified he knew Raniolo for several years, and on the day of the robbery he had received a telephone call from Raniolo, who announced his machine had been stolen while parked outside of a Youngstown theater.

Thomas Bowser, Youngstown city detective, said he was acquainted with Raniolo and that he had a conversation with that defendant, together with another detective, Michael L. Flynn, on the morning of December 31, when Raniolo was apprehended. Bowser said he asked Raniolo at his arrest if he was acquainted with Sankert and whether he (Raniolo) took part in the New Wilmington hold-up.

Bowser declared Raniolo denied having anything to do with the hold-up but admitted hiring counsel for Sankert.

Bowser said he was present when the older Klump identified Raniolo at the Youngstown police stand-up.

Bowser testified that Raniolo is now charged with the hold-up of the Ohio Dried Fruit Company on December 24, a day before last Christmas.

Bowser told of the extradition proceedings which were fought by Raniolo, resulting in the defendant's failure to appear for a hearing and his subsequent forfeit of $7,500.

Michael L. Flynn, another Youngstown city detective, testified at the hearing that he had overheard Raniolo talk to his attorney in the Youngstown jail. The attorney, Flynn declared, had said to the defendant that an alibi could be established for Raniolo to show that he was in a theater at the time of the hold-up.

Jinx-Proof Diva

Unlike most great artists, Miss Grace Moore, Metropolitan Opera star, is not a bit superstitious. She regards her black cat as her greatest luck-bringer and doesn't mind how often it crosses her path. Miss Moore recently scored a tremendous success in the opera Manon, in New York.

Call of the Wild

This modern Miss prefers the jungles of British East Africa to the social round of debutante existence. She is Miss Diana Guest, daughter of the Hon. and Mrs. Frederick Guest of New York and Palm Beach, Fla. Instead of spending the Winter in Florida like so many of her acquaintances, Miss Guest is on an exploration tour with her father.

Indifferent

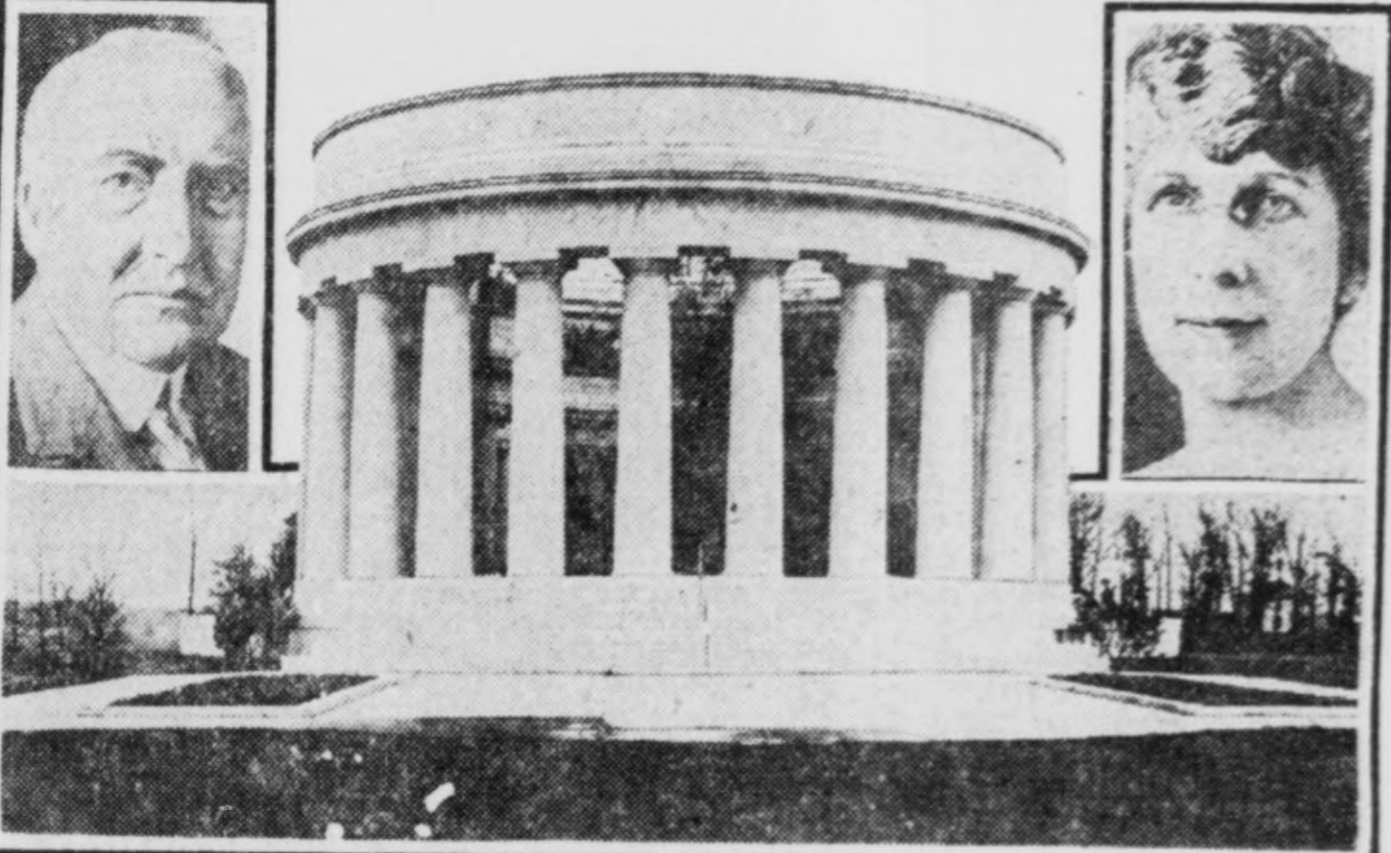

Alleged confessor to the brutal hammer attack which resulted in the death of Mrs. Clara E. C. Ellis, wealthy widow of Haverhill, Mass., Russell Noble, 17-year-old high school student fails to show any evidence of remorse or a gnawing conscience in this "happy-looking" photo. Noble was arraigned in Haverhill court to answer charge of murder.

Boulder Dam Project Gets Under Way

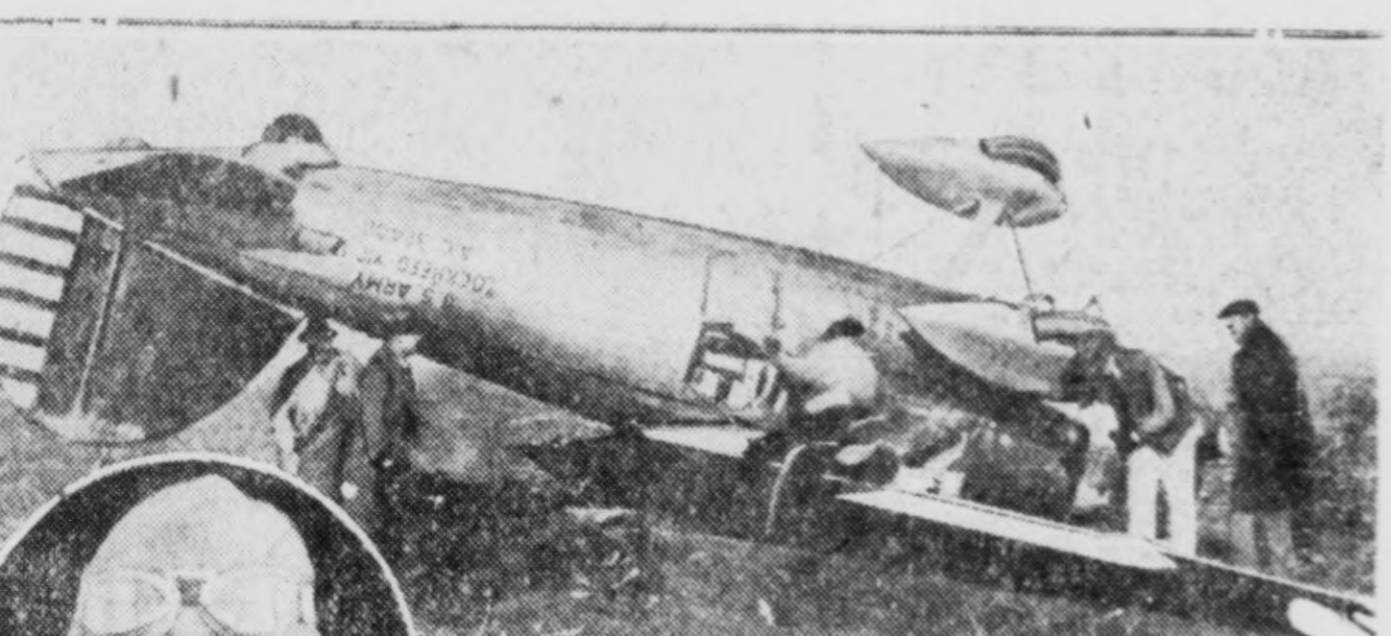

The greatest engineering feat ever undertaken in the United States, ranking second in magnitude only to the Panama Canal, is the Boulder Dam project. The contract for harnessing the giant Colorado River has been awarded to Six Companies, Inc., and the work will be under the supervision of William H. Wattis, president of the company (left inset). The machinery of this giant project has been set in motion by Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur (right), pictured with Dr. Elwood Mead, Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, as the contract calling for construction was officially signed. President to Dedicate Harding Tomb

The Memorial raised over the tomb of the late President and Mrs. Harding, at Marion, Ohio, will be dedicated by President Hoover during the week of June 14. Former President Calvin Coolidge is also understood to have been invited to participate at the dedication ceremonies.

When Plane and Hopes Crashed

All hope Captain Ira Eaker, (Left), U. S. Army ace, might have had for a new transcontinental record, disappeared when a clogged fuel line forced him to land his Lockheed Vega monoplane on a mudbank near Marion, Kentucky, during his attempted non-stop flight from Los Angeles to New York. As the picture shows the plane turned over on landing, but Captain Eaker escaped with minor injuries.

PICTURESQUE OLD STYLES ARE REVIVED BY MODERN BEAUTY EXPERTS

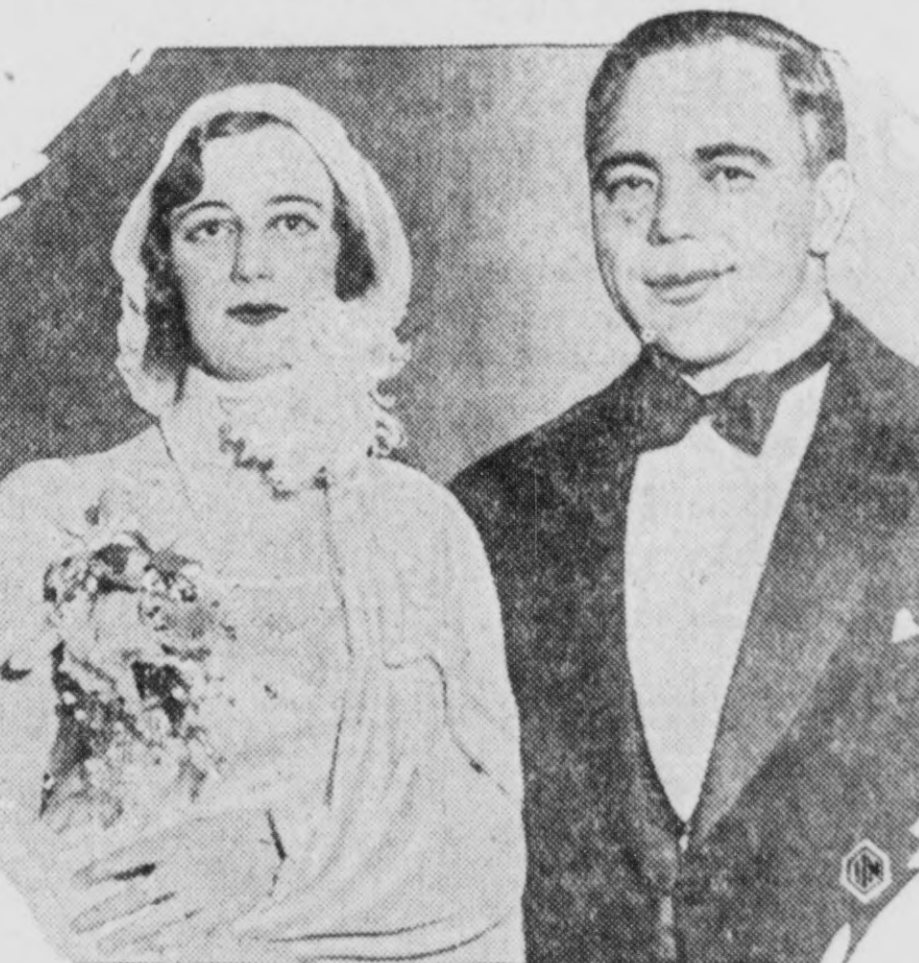

Here are four fashions sponsored by the American Association of Beauty Culture at their recent meeting in New York. Left.

Helen Girard wearing the coiffeur de poudre from the reign of Louis XV Next, the Duchess of Devonshire headdress and frock worn by Evelyn Marshall. Third, a "white bird" costume, worn by Elizabeth Meligan and sponsored by the association. And, right.

Mary Ann Trimble in the coiffeur de phantancy, which awaits new adjectives to describe it.

Pinned by Cupid

A flock of reporters and cameramen were at hand at the Little Church Around the Corner, New York, to wish Gus Sonnenberg, former world's wrestling champ, and his pretty bride, the former Marie Elliot, of Belmont, Mass., lots and lots of happiness. They are pictured together as they left the church after the ceremony.

Champion by Heritage

A couple of champions pose with a third potential breaker of records. They are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wright, pictured with their recently born daughter in their Toronto, Canada, home. Wright is the former holder of the Diamond Sculls, emblematic of the sculling championship, and Mrs. Wright is the former Martha Norcross, swimming champion.

Commissioners Of Mercer County See State Road Head

Told That Legislation For Improved Roads In State Still Pending

(Special To The News)
MERCER, Pa., Mar. 14.—Mercer county commissioners have just returned from Harrisburg, Pa., where they went to confer with State Highway Commissioner Samuel Lewis with regard to the prospects of Mercer county in getting state aid for the completion and construction of new improved highways in the county.

They were informed by the state highway commissioner that the legislation appropriating funds for this purpose was still pending and that at this time, it was impossible to determine what could be allotted for use in Mercer county and that nothing could be done until this legislation had been passed. He promised full co-operation with the county authorities when the money was available.

The commissioners hope to secure funds from the state to complete the Maysville-Greenville road which is six miles in length and three miles of which is still unimproved.

They also hope to secure state assistance in building the seven miles of unimproved road still remaining on the New Wilmington-Mercer highway. About one and one-half miles of this highway has been improved.

The program of 20,000 miles of improved highways to be built during the Pinchot administration would mean 372 miles of highway for Mercer county, if approved.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

PLAYIN' TH' GAME

Memories of the bridge across the Shenango river at Washington street at the present time, include a number of things that possibly most people of the present day have forgotten or never did know. Way back years ago, there was a herd of cattle being driven across this bridge, when all of a sudden the bridge gave away and a considerable part of the drove of cattle were precipitated into the river. As far as can be learned most of the cattle were rescued alive.

There were probably few people, who remember about the dam that stood in the river about three hundred feet below the bridge. It furnished slackwater up the river for a considerable distance that made fine boating.

Then there were the days when the little steamer that ran to Nancy's Island at Pulaski was tied up about three or four hundred feet north of the bridge and took on and unloaded passengers.

There was also the fine little park maintained for many years from the bridge several hundred feet north by the crossing watchman of the P. & L. E. stationed at that point.

West Siders Take Travel Trips In School Assembly

Work Out Unique Geography Projects At West Washington St. School

Two very interesting geography projects were completed by the 6B and 6A classes of the West Side School in model imaginary trips to Japan and Egypt, conducted Friday morning during the school's usual assembly period. Loraine Smith was in charge of devotionals.

Each child, in his own way told about the work, play and life of the people of those countries.

The children were costumed in Japanese attire so that the boys and girls could set how the Japanese children dress.

The work was a complete resume of the study of Japan and Egypt just completed by the sixth grade.

The stage was attractively decorated with Japanese and Egyptian tapestry, also a very large painted background showing an attractive village with the sacred mountain, the Fujiyama, in the distance.

The Japan project was directed by Miss Sylvia Martin, student teacher under the supervision of Miss Theresa Cover. The project of Egypt was directed by Miss Helen Witherspoon, also a student teacher under the supervision of Miss Cover.

The program was as follows: Devotionals. Talk, Egypt, Geraldine Hetrick. African play by Grade 6A—Eleanor Wester and Laverne Hansen. Talk "The Elephant a Native" "Animal of Africa," "Mary Anna Ayers."

Japanese play—Thomas Williams, Nancy Hall, Ruthford Owens. Talk—Mary Elizabeth Fondrick. Riddles—Grade 6B. Poem—Eleanor Ungar.

Will Wage War On Use Of Ohio Tags On Pennsylvania Cars
SHARON, Pa., Mar. 14.—Corporal Earl McGill of the local unit of the State Highway Patrol, announced today that stringent efforts to enforce the state law regarding the use of Ohio license plates on motor vehicles owned by residents of Pennsylvania, would be taken immediately.
member of the unit has investigated numerous complaints of the law violation and to have unearthed a number of violations. Such violators are subject to a fine of $50 and costs.
A violation of the law, according to the patrol leader, is nothing more than an attempt to save a few dollars. License plates are considerably cheaper in Ohio than they are here and consequently many motorists residing in this vicinity have taken advantage of the opportunity to save a few dollars.
"Is Clara really unsophisticated?" "Unsophisticated! Why, she thought a pawn ticket admitted one to a chess game!"

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Play System Of School Not Approved By Dad Who Writes Dr. Myers

Child Should Be Conversant With Elements Of Knowledge So Use Is Second Nature, Says Parent

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D., Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

"Dear Mr. Myers: We fathers who read the syndicated articles, as anyone else who can and does use his brain to some extent, naturally agree and disagree with these articles, depending on the subject. In general, it is a thankless job to write in answer to such articles, as it does not open a discussion on any particular subject and such a letter, particularly one that disagrees with the published article, generally ends the subject. That may be one, and possibly the main reason why you do not hear from 'DAD.' He is too busy to write useless letters.

"Personally, I have been watching the schools as they influence youth, having four children in the grade and high school now. There are several important factors missing in the educational systems of today, in the opinion of numerous of my friends, not all men, but people who, like myself, went to school 30 and 40 years ago.

"The imagination which you mention is all right for the small child before the school age, but generally that trait is carried on throughout the school years. The children are not impressed with the fact that this life is not one round of play, and few when they graduate from high school have any sense of duty or responsibility, and have not learned actually how to study.

"In the lower grades, the system is to teach the children everything by playing. Home work is eliminated completely and the child, after school hours, has nothing to do but play.

"When the children get along a few years, a little home work may be given, but often not regularly, and they then find difficulty in getting the fundamental principles of studying as they have so far been taught nothing but 'play.' So much of fundamental knowledge is not taught as it would necessitate use of memory. But what else than memory is knowledge? I do not say memorizing, but memory? You can not know anything, but by having it in your mind, or having the basic facts in your mind so you can derive what you want to use.

"This applies just as much to the elements of arithmetic as it does to advanced science. The child should be so conversant with the elements of knowledge that their use is second nature. However, such a thorough knowledge is absent today as the educators claim that that is memorizing and is, therefore, undesirable. Let the child find out for himself: is a pet phrase of the educator of today. But then why have schools at all, as in principle that is going back to before the cave men? Even he learned something from his own father.

"The fear of the educator that the child might have to use his brain naturally gives the child the feeling, and rightly so, that it makes little difference whether he knows or not. Children go through high school that way because they are compelled by law to go to school, and when they finally get out into actual touch with the real life in this world, they may, depending on their natural ambitions, find out that everyone has some duties and responsibilities to others.

"If the children had some of these facts instilled early the pernicious 'monitor' system which you discussed would not be necessary or even resorted to. The teacher in any class knows very well, if she or he uses gray matter, who the individuals in any class are who are liable to be disturbing elements, and does not need the help of an innocent victim to tattle.

"HERMAN S. RIEDERER, Ph.D., 'New Rochelle, N. Y.'

Answer: Thank you, Dr. Riederer. I agree with you more fully than you might suppose and I regret that I have not space enough for your entire letter.

McGill P. T. A. Fathers-Sons Have Fine Time

Interesting Program Carried Out By Fathers And Boys
On Friday Evening

Fathers-Sons banquet meeting of the Arthur McGill School Parents Teachers Association as held last evening was one of the more successful meetings of the association held in a long time.

More than a hundred fathers and sons gathered together in the First United Presbyterian church for the banquet, enjoying the fine dinner prepared by the ladies of the church.

Dr. J. L. Reed, president, presided at the banquet and Prof. R. G. Leslie gave the invocation. Pep singing while the banquet was in progress was directed by Edwin Williams with R. D. Rhodes at the piano.

A green and white color scheme was carried out in the decoration of the banquet tables and in the menu, adding much to the interest in the occasion.

Following the banquet, the fathers and sons adjourned to the auditorium of the Arthur McGill school, where a business meeting was held and an interesting program presented.

Dr. Reed, presided, and pep singing with Messrs. Williams and Rhodes officiating was again a feature. H. N. Drio made the report of the previous meeting as secretary, while John A. McNeill, the treasurer, made a financial report, which showed the organization to be in an excellent financial condition.

E. L. Thompson addressed the gathering on the question of parent membership and at the close of the meeting secured thirteen new members.

The actual program of the evening was opened by the fathers arising, introducing themselves and their sons. Frank Dewberry introduced three sons attending the school, this being the greatest number of any father present.

The part of the program presented by the boys of the school was most interesting and entertaining. This included a piano solo by Gilbert Cox, a reading "Johnnie Reads The Newspaper" by Bobby Richards;

a piano selection by Junior Dufford and a reading "Sick in Bed" by Jimmie Houston.

The balance of the program was made up of talks by men of the gathering. B. K. Thacker, principal of the George Washington Junior High School, told of the fine school to which the boys of the McGill school would go later, speaking of the meeting to be held there later for the parents and pupils and urging the membership of the parents in the Parent-Teachers Association.

R. G. Leslie, principal of the Arthur McGill school spoke at some length on boys and the benefits of membership in the Parent-Teachers Association.

Herbert G. Horton, Lawrence County Scout Executive, was the concluding speaker of the evening and held the attention of the boys in telling them of various scout activities in which they could participate, also instructing them in the Indian Sign Language and other things of interest to boys. He also spoke to the fathers on what they could do to make things more interesting and beneficial to themselves and their sons.

Announcement was made that a mothers and daughters banquet meeting would be held next month.

Repeat Success Of Show Bizarre

Great Throng In Cathedral
Auditorium Witnesses Last Night's Minstrel

The nearly two thousand people who gathered in the magnificent Cathedral auditorium Friday evening to witness the second and final presentation of The Show Bizarre, minstrel and musical comedy, were delighted with the splendid performance.

Last night's crowd was larger than the first night's and it is believed that a fine sum of money will be realized from the production, which was given for the benefit of the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Gay scenery, brilliant and beautiful costumes, together with talented acting, good singing, clever and hilarious comedy, were more than enough to make the great audience enjoy the production to the fullest.

Many of the songs were written by local people, the jokes were original, the dances were directed by local people—in fact the entire show was written and directed and made what it was by people from the old home town.

Beautiful bouquets of flowers were presented to several of the young ladies playing leading parts, between acts.

This was the third annual show produced here for the benefit of the Jameson Memorial hospital, and each time the show seems to surpass the last, judging by the enthusiasm by which they are received.

Data For School Patrons Of Wayne To Be Presented

County Superintendent John C. Syling Will Give Figures On Consolidation

Wayne township citizens will meet this evening at Hopedale school house for a further consideration of a proposition to consolidate schools. At a former meeting it was decided to secure data relative to cost before taking any definite action.

Record Crowd Is Forecasted

Much At Stake In Double Header In Shelby League Tonight

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 14.—One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to attend the double header basket ball contests in the Shelby auditorium this evening. The season in the Shelby league is drawing to a climax. Much is at stake this evening when the ex-high stars of the Hot Mills will endeavor to defend their first place, in the second half of the league, against the strong Office quintet, who has been a constant threat through the entire period.

The Hot Mills hold one game over the Office which the latter will try to wipe out. Should they succeed, a play-off will be necessitated to decide the challenger for the Specialty passers, first half winners, for the League championship. The Hot Mills will do their utmost to prevent the play-off.

It is evident that fans are skeptical about this contest with the two evenly matched teams, as there are no predictions floating around. In view of the past records of these quintets the Hot Mills seem to have the edge. They have defeated the Office 3 times out of 5 attempts and also hold more victories over their rivals. Revenge and the league cup will be the motive for a supreme struggle by the Office.

The winner of this contest or the play-off if necessary, will battle the Specialty in probably 3 post season games for the league cup. Naturally the one winning the best out of the 3 games will be the logical champion.

The Specialty and the Mechanicals will fulfill the other part of the double-header bill for this evening. The latter has lost every game in this second half, but always by a close margin. It will not be surprising if they turn the tables this time.

The wedding, while informal, was one of the most important of the present season, and was witnessed by members of the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents on Park avenue.

The vows were pledged and responses made before an embankment of palms, ferns and tall standards of flowers of the season, perfectly arranged, making a most striking setting. The Rev. W. E. Minter, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, was the officiant, using the impressive ring service.

The bride, a popular and charming young woman who was given in marriage by her father, John McKim, wore a gown of exquisite gold silk crepe in princess mode with a yoke of lace, made sleeveless, with a full flowing skirt that showed the tips of her satin slippers. Her shoulder corsage was of Briar-Cliff roses, tied with dainty streamers of matching ribbon.

Anne Smith, who was chosen as bridesmaid, was attired in a distinctive gown of autumn brown chiffon fashioned on the same lines, with accessories to match. She also wore a shoulder corsage of selected blooms of the season.

George Regar, an intimate friend of the groom, served as best man.

Immediately following the congratulatory period, the guests were ushered into the dining room where they were served a wedding dinner. Tones of pink, yellow and green, in the palest shades, were attractively used throughout in the table and menu appointments. A large cake appropriately decorated, topped with a miniature bride and groom, graced the center. Covers were laid for the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Butler, and daughter Jean, the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Minter and Mr. and Mrs. John McKim and son George.

Mrs. Butler is one of the most prominent members of the younger set here and is a graduate of the Ellwood City high school in the class of '30. She is a talented pianist, and has been quite active in various social activities given at all times.

Mr. Butler, who is a well and favorably known young man in his circle of friends, is also a high school graduate and attended Geneva college and Cornell university. He now holds a responsible position at the National Tube company here.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Butler left by motor for an extended honeymoon trip, their destination, which was unrevealed, and upon their return they will make their home with the bride's parents.

Changes In Track Contest This Year

No Track Contests For Girls To Be Held This Year

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 14.—Some important changes will be noticed this year in the Beaver Valley Interscholastic Track Contest to be held on May 23, as announced by J. Ellis Bell, principal of the Lincoln High school. Mr. Bell was the representative of the local schools at a special meeting held in the Ambridge high school Thursday evening.

The 220 low hurdles will be changed to 120 and in place of the 120 high hurdles, a low hurdles shuttle race will be substituted with four members on a team competing, with a like number of several teams.

Also it was announced there will be no girl's meet this year due to the physical strain. This idea will be discontinued for the future. It was suggested of having a national "Play Day" for the benefit of the girls when inter-scholastic competition in minor events will be tolerated.

There will be no basketball rating in Beaver Valley as was customary because of the many schools being in the different sections of the W. P. I. A. L. league, which would make this practically impossible.

Marriage Occurs At Ellwood City

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 14.—With quiet ceremony this morning Ellen Klindienst and Raymond Innes both of this city were united in holy wedlock.

The nuptials occurred at 10:00 o'clock at the parsonage of the First Presbyterian Church with Rev. Arthur M. Stevenson officiating. The Presbyterian ceremony was performed.

The bride was attended by Miss June Watterson and the best man being the brother of the bride Edward Klindienst all of Ellwood City. The newly weds will make their home in the rear of 604 Lake avenue in this city.

Win Verdict In Damage Case

MEADVILLE, Pa., Mar. 14.—An award of $1,926 was made by a jury to Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Strouse, Ellwood City, at the close of their $30,000 damage suit against C. C. Kling, owner of Conneaut Lake. The suit was based on an automobile accident in September, 1928, on the Meadville-Conneaut Lake road.

T. J. Prather, Pittsburgh, former judge of the Crawford county courts was attorney for the defendant.

TAKE A BROOM TO COBWEBS!

"THAT DESK has stood there for years. I wouldn't think of moving it." "George is awfully fond of that chair. It belonged to his grandmother." "Yes, I managed to match the old red draperies exactly. It wouldn't seem like home if things were changed."

You have known people like that, set in their ways and hide-bound by tradition. Good souls they are, fine, solid, substantial... but missing out on so much that they have every right to enjoy. Wouldn't you like to shake them awake... sweep the cobwebs from their mental horizons... give them words like "new" and "latest" to replace the "olds" and "always"? If they would only read the advertisements in the daily newspapers!

New foods and balanced diets. Household appliances that add hours to the day. Stylish dresses at astonishingly reasonable cost. In fact, all up-to-date merchandise in complete array. That is the sort of news the advertisements bring you... new ways to do old things, new articles to replace the old... news!

Read the advertisements every day. It will pay you... in added enjoyment, and actual money saved.

AFTER THE FIRST BATTLE OF FREEMAN'S FARM (SEPT. 19, 1777) BURGONYNE TOOK UP A STRONG POSITION A MILE NORTH OF BEMIS HEIGHTS, DIGGING IN HIS LINES AND FORTIFYING HIS CAMP. HERE HE LAY INACTIVE FOR EIGHTEEN DAYS.

MEANWHILE A VIOLENT QUARREL HAD ARISEN BETWEEN ARNOLD AND GATES. ARNOLD WAS ANGRY BECAUSE GATES HAD FAILED TO SUPPORT HIM AT FREEMAN'S FARM, AND ALSO BECAUSE GATES HAD MADE NO MENTION OF ARNOLD IN HIS REPORT TO CONGRESS OF THE BATTLE.

GATES HAD PURPOSELY OMITTED ARNOLD'S NAME SO THAT HE HIMSELF MIGHT SEEM ENTITLED TO ALL THE CREDIT. IN A RAGE ARNOLD WROTE CAUSTIC LETTERS TO GATES AND ENDED BY ASKING TO BE TRANSFERRED TO WASHINGTON'S ARMY.

YET ARNOLD WAS FURIOUS WHEN GATES, GLAD TO BE RID OF SUCH A FIREBRAND, READILY GRANTED HIS REQUEST. BUT ARNOLD DID NOT LEAVE. INSTEAD, HE HUNG AROUND THE CAMP, CONVINCED THAT HIS SERVICES WERE BADLY NEEDED WHERE HE WAS.

Sekyra And Rocco To Clash Monday

Heavyweights To Polish Off Today And Enter Ring Monday Night

FOUR OTHER BOUTS ON FISTIC CALENDAR

Emmett Rocco and Joe Sekyra, rival heavyweights, will polish off today in final preparation for their 10-round punch party at the Castle bowl, Monday night. They have been in strenuous training for two weeks and fans expect to see one of the best battles heavies have staged here.

Rocco and Sekyra have battled twice. The first time they clashed Sekyra, copped the award by a handsome margin but when they milled a second time the Ellwood City lad got away with the verdict.

When they were signed for the third time Sekyra accepted with alacrity and Rocco wasn't slow to attach his signature to a set of articles. Fans have taken to the scrap and indications point to a large crowd.

Sekyra has quite a reputation. He has been fighting since 1926 and has won the limit and give good fights to Max Schmeling, Willie Strubling, Tommy Loughran, Leo Lomski, K. O. Christner and other highly touted batters.

His knockout record is imposing and Rocco, the best heavyweight Lawrence county has produced since the days of Tom McMahon has knocked out many opponents and except for temporary setbacks has earned a good reputation.

Sekyra will leave New York tonight and arrive here Sunday. He will finish up his work at the Jimmy Dime gymnasium tomorrow. Rocco will wind up his training at Ellwood City.

Plenty Of Punching

The heavyweights will weigh in Monday afternoon at three o'clock. Rocco hopes to weigh around 185 pounds. Sekyra will balance the beam at about 190, according to reports from Charlie Cook's telegram from New York.

It is not known who will referee or judge and the boxing commission will not announce the identities of the referee or judges until the bell rings for the first bout. It is considered the best bout in the section Monday.

Considerable interest is being shown in the heavyweight semi-final battle listed for six rounds between Sam Cohen of Cleveland and K. O. Kitts of Richmond. O. They are six-footers and weigh about 200 pounds.

There will be three four round bouts and plenty of action is expected to be flashed in each. In one four rounder Joe Midway tackles Henry Attell. They are locally famous for their "sock." These battles weigh 160 pounds.

The rivalry between Johnny Banko and Walter West will probably be settled for all time. Either may be flattened. The first bout resulted in a knockout for Banko who turned the trick in the fourth chapter. They weigh 135 pounds.

Marshall Couette will make his re-appearance the first since last spring. He will take on Al Farone of Pittsburgh at 130 pounds. Marshall has been beaten only once. Farone gives all his opponents a stiff argument.

The first bout will start promptly at 8:15 p. m. and the no smoking order, laid down by the state commission will be enforced by police and firemen. There will be no delays between battles.

Bessemer High Wins Class B Tourney Title

BESSEMER DEFEATS UNION QUINT, 25-14 IN FINALS FRIDAY

Bessemer Plays Deliberate Basketball Throughout Tourney To Win Title

Shenango High Wins Consolation Game From Mt. Jackson By Score Of 16-10

Bessemer high school's basketball team was crowned winner in the Lawrence County Class B tournament which was concluded on the Westminster College floor Friday night. The Cement town five proved too much for Union high and came through victorious 25-14 in the final contest of the tourney which drew close to 1,000 customers. Shenango high defeated Mt. Jackson 16-10 in a consolation game.

Bessemer played a cool deliberate brand of ball during the entire game. The Coach Fredericks machine grabbed the lead as soon as the contest got underway and although the Union blue and white combination fought desperately in the hope of overcoming the lead piled up by their opponents, their attempts proved futile. In the third period Union cut Bessemer's lead down to four points but Bessemer came right back to tally 5 points while Union scored 10.

Furious Play
It was in the third quarter that the Union boys played their best game. The initial quarter ended 4-2 with the Cement town boys leading. In the second period the Union boys were held scoreless by Bessemer's lead down to four points but Bessemer came right back to tally 5 points while Union scored 10.

A fighting Union five took the floor in the third quarter determined to overcome the Bessemerites. For a while it appeared as though the Scotland Lane boys would be on top at the end of the quarter. Union piled up 6 points before Bessemer got into the scoring column for the period. In the latter part of the period Bessemer tallied 5 more points. Union's total for the quarter was 10 points.

The final quarter saw the Bessemer cagers pile up 8 more points while Union could only score but 2. The final score was 25-14 with Bessemer the winner of the game and the tourney. Bessemer eliminated East Brook last Monday. The work of the entire Bessemer team was outstanding.

In the matter of points Puromaki found the nets for five field goals with Afric of Bessemer next with three. Zarembo and Lannigan proved the best scorers for Coach Dave Boyd's machine. Each scored twice.

Bessemer Is Class
In winning the tournament Bessemer demonstrated that it is the cream of the Class B teams in Lawrence County for 1930-31. The de-lense and offense of this team works splendidly. Union was awarded a cup as runners up in the tourney.

In the first game of the evening which was a consolation contest, Shenango high played well to defeat the same fighting Mt. Jackson five by a 16-10 score in a fast contest. Mt. Jackson fought hard throughout but could not overtake the lead piled up by the East New Castle players. At the half the Shenango boys went off the floor with an 11-4 lead. In the third period the Shenango boys scored 3 more points and in the final period 2 more. Mt. Jackson's points in the last half totaled 6.

Collins and Baldwin played the best for Shenango while Pitzer and Griener were the best for the Mt. Jackson five. The tourney proved a success in every way and it is believed that it will be an annual affair.

At the close of the game a program was carried out as follows:
Introductory remarks—Graduate Manager A. A. McDonald, Westminster.

Presentation of first place trophy, a large silver loving cup, to Captain Stanish, Bessemer high school, by Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president of Westminster College.

Presentation of second place trophy, smaller size silver loving cup, to Captain Zarembo, Union high school, by Charles F. Ball, assistant superintendent of schools.

Presentation of third place trophy, a regulation basketball, to Captain Collins of Shenango high school winner of the consolation game, by James A. Pitzer, vice president Westminster athletic council.

Presentation of ball used in tournament to Captain Forbie Pitzer of Mt. Jackson as the most valuable player to his team during the tournament, by Charles F. Ball, assistant county superintendent of schools.

Laycock Leads Crimson Quint

Blaine Laycock, Sharon Freshman Leads Grove City Scorers

GROVE CITY, Pa., Mar. 14.—Blaine Laycock of Sharon, freshman center of the Grove City College floor team, was the high scorer in the campaign just closed, a study of the records reveals. Laycock barely missed out Captain Tom Burke, also of Sharon, by six points, represented by his three field goals in the final game of the season with Duquesne. The Grover yearling fully equalled the promise of his high school career, when he was a guard on the state championship Sharon team in 1930.

In field goals, Burke and Laycock were tied with 53 for the year. Laycock was more successful from the foul line, caging 23 out of 36 attempts, while Burke scored 17 out of 32. Laycock had the advantage of his teammate as he saw more action during the year.

Fegley Is Third
Vernard Fegley, a forward of Hazelton, is third in the ranking with 90 points. George Stanitsky, guard, of Manchester, Conn., was out of action much of the year but rated fourth place in the scoring with 56 points. Ray Reeves, guard, of Cleveland, was close behind with 52 points, and Joe Minnick, forward, of Duquesne, had 38. Mike Koma, Struthers, O., guard, accounted for 36 points, and Wilbur Ruckel, Newport, Pa., forward, had 30. Others in order were: Hildebrand 4, Storey 4, Bayard 4 and Montgomery 2.

Foul shooting honors are held by George Stanitsky, who caged 12 out of 17 attempts for an average of .707. Joe Minnick, with 18 out of 24, had .667. Laycock's average was .638, with 23 out of 36. Koma and Storey averaged .571. Reeves' average was .555 with 10 out of 18. Fegley, speedy little forward was fouled 58 times during the year, making good on 34 attempts for an average of .552. Other averages were: Burke .531, and Ruckel .500. The team foul-shooting average was .588.

Duffy Lewis Becomes National Leaguer

DUFFY LEWIS
BOSTON BRAVES
COACH—AS HE APPEARED AS A RED SOX STAR.

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Artist-Writer

Duffy Lewis a National leaguer? Perish the idea!

But he is, at last! Lewis, at one time one of the greatest of American league outfielders and whose long stellar major league career was spent entirely in the junior circuit, will wear the trappings of a National league club this season.

Duffy will do duty as a coach with the Boston Braves. He was taken on by Manager Bill McKeechne to aid Wilkinsburg Bill drill his outfielders. Meanwhile, old Hank Gowdy, who has been coaching for Bill, will devote most of his time to the development of the Beaneater hurlers.

During the coming season Boston fans will see Duffy doing his stuff back of the first base with McKeechne coaching third.

Lewis is best remembered for his stellar role with the one-time famous American league outfield trio of Lewis, This Speaker and Harry Hooper. His playing in the world series of 1912, 1915 and 1916 is also worth recalling. Later he played with the Yankees.

As manager of Salt Lake City in subsequent seasons, Lewis developed such future major league stars as Tony Lazzeri and Johnny Frederick.

AT ERIE Pa.—Frank Bajorski Erie lightweight, defeated Eddie Reed, Philadelphia (10).

AT CHESTER, Mass.—Steve Smith Bridgeport, Conn., featherweight, defeated Vernon Cormier, Worcester, Mass., (10).

AT SAN FRANCISCO—Battline Dozier Wichita, Kans., negro welterweight won on a technical knockout from Charley Hernandez, San Francisco (7).

AT LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Frankie Klick, San Francisco featherweight defeated Bobby Pancho El Centro, Cal., (10).

Tommy Loughran Defeats Schaaf

SHARKEY REFUSES TO MEET LOUGHRAN

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 14.—Dapper Tommy Loughran was again the old master in winning an easy ten-round decision over Ernie Schaaf at Madison Square Garden last night but his promised reward of a return bout with Jack Sharkey appeared as far away as ever today.

Sharkey and Johnny Buckley, co-managers of Schaaf, who stated earlier in the week that Loughran could have another crack at Sharkey if he beat Schaaf, candidly admitted after the fight that this was done merely to help the publicity for last night's show.

"The way things are now, there wouldn't be any dough in a match between me and Loughran," said Sharkey.

Relying mainly on his lightning-like left jabs and displaying remarkable footwork and speed Loughran won all of the first six rounds. By that time, however, Schaaf's body punches had begun to take their toll and the stoic German from Boston won two of the last four rounds, the two being even.

Mrs. Streatham—Smythe (staging her first reception): And, Mary, from seven to eight o'clock I want you to stand in the drawing-room and call the guests' names as they arrive.

Mild: I'll do my best, mum. I suppose just the first thing that comes into my head about 'em will do!—The Humorist.

WITHOUT FAIL
"My husband is particularly liable to sea sickness, captain," said the woman.

"The skipper nodded 'I've heard of the complaint before, ma'am,' he said.

"Could you tell him what to do in case of an attack?" asked the woman.

"Tain't necessary," replied the skipper.—Montreal Star.

Floor May Be Seen On Sunday

The doors of the Lyceum hall will be thrown open to the public for inspection on Sunday. The men who took part in laying and finishing the wooden floor may justly feel proud of their accomplishments.

Youngstown Banker Is Suicide Victim

(International News Service) YOUNGSTOWN, O., Mar. 14.—Ill health today was given as the reason by Coroner M. E. Hayes for the suicide of Harry Williams, 61, cashier of the Commercial National bank here and for many years a leader in city and state banking circles.

Williams shot himself through the right temple, police reported, in the directors' room of the bank two hours after the institution was closed for the day. His wife was waiting in a parked automobile outside to drive him home.

Preston Williams, a son, employed at the bank, was first to reach his father's side. He said his father had been grieving recently over the death of his mother and brother and had experienced a nervous breakdown last month.

Final Contest Is Won By Cummings

New Castle District Orators Compete For Honors Friday Evening

In the New Castle district finals in the oratorical contests being conducted by the Pennsylvania Power company, as a part of the state and national contest, W. H. Cummings of New Castle was awarded first place by the decision of the judges last night. Second place went to W. T. Donovan of Zelienople and third place to A. J. Hunter with W. H. Luikhart fourth. Cummings and Donovan will represent the New Castle district in the further eliminations.

You're the Judge

The court held with Mr. Splinter Ritch.

The judges reasoned thus: It used to be a rule that an obligor would be released only by an instrument of as high technicality as that by which he was bound. But that is no longer so. The facts are more important than the sort of instrument. Here the trustee was a lawyer and understood the technicalities of the law. It must be assumed that when he made a verbal agreement he did so with his eyes open and without any intent to defraud his client.

It has been suggested that there must have been at least 180 Adams as many progenitors as there are subdivisions of the human race!

P. Schoonaker. He admitted embezzling $1,900.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Prices Incline Towards Higher Levels

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Mar. 14.—With the exception of a few of the Rails and Specialties, stock prices were inclined to higher levels in the week-end market. Leaders in the rally included the Utilities, Amusements, and Specialties and most of the stock which were under pressure in the last two days showed the good effects of short covering. The bulls were encouraged by the seasonal upturn in important sections of American business.

Consolidated Gas, United Corporation and other favorite Utilities moved up a point or two. Amusement stocks responded to reports that the financing problems of the well known companies were being solved. A final "demonstration" in Radio whipped that stock ahead to 25 1/2 for a gain of nearly 3 points, the stock closing at the top. Radio

Keith also closed at the best price of the day, advancing 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 and Warner sold above 14 for the first time this week. Since Monday Warner 6 per cent bonds of 1929 have recovered 9 1/2 points.

A moderate rally in the market as a whole was shown by Dow Jones averages, the Industrials having moved ahead about 2 points and the Rails fractionally.

United States Steel finished the day at 14 1/2, up 1/2. American Can was up 1 1/2 at 124; American Tel. and Tel. up 1/2 at 194 1/2; General Electric up 1/2 at 50 1/2; General Motors up 1/2 at 44; Auburn up 1/2 at 18 1/2; Anaconda Copper up 1/2 at 28 1/2; Consolidated Gas up 1/2 at 103 1/2; American Waterworks up a point at 70 1/2; Standard Oil of N. J. up 1/2 at 46; Atchafalup up 1/2 at 190; Katy down 1/2 at 20.

Transactions on the big board totaled 1,000,000, the smallest Saturday volume since January 31.

Exhibit Program At North Street School On Friday

A program to give the parents and friends of the school an idea of the splendid work being done in the nature study classes of North street school was presented in the school Friday afternoon by the pupils of grade 6A.

A camp fire scene was introduced by Benny Tencer and grouped about the fire to hear the wonderful nature stories were pupils from the participating grade and a rousing song by the class opened the program.

Dean Gibson was the camp director and he introduced the different numbers: a woodchuck experience by Richard Gardner; stalling experience, Mary Tencer; poem, Helen Wygonoski; snake, class; poem, Pauline Peluso; snake exp., Mrs. James Dean; turtle experience, Virginia Smith; poem, Betty Tencer; mosquito experience, Sarah Jane Cleland; star experience, Fred Harding; song by the class, taps by Alfred Hall.

At the close of the program the guests were invited to inspect the nature study room, where, under the tutelage of Evelyn Spencer, the children are instructed in all kinds of nature lore. The past five weeks Miss Spencer has been assisted by Lavina Stewart and Lenora Nissler, students at Slippery Rock State Teachers college, who have been doing their practice teaching in the North street school.

The room was almost filled with specimens of animal, bird, fish and plant life and some wonderful examples of taxidermy, which is done in the school, attested to the fact that the children are thoroughly instructed.
